	ne		- , -
ue		: 31:	э 44 -	4.

Genesis 42:1
It was at the beginning of the second year of the prophesied seven years of famine when Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) realizes the amount of grain on hand is insufficient to sustain his people until famine's end. A solution presents itself when Yaakov happens upon neighbors laden with grain, and upon seeing them, asks from	וַיַּרָא whence it came. They tell Yaakov	יַעַקֹב
that	בי פי
there is	ַבָּישׁ יַישׁ
grain for sale	ײַב שֶׁבֶר
in Egypt and that its acquisition requires an appearance before the Viceroy of Egypt. Upon hearing their father implore them to purchase Egyptian grain, Yaakov's sons argue over which sibling should go. Disconcerted by their inability to realize that as head of their respective households, all of them must go to Egypt to purchase grain, their father is intent upon interjecting clarification,	בָּמֶצְרָיִם בְּמֶצְרָיִם
and says	וַיֹּאמֶר
Yaakov	יַעֲקֹב
to his sons, "We do not have enough grain to survive the seven-year famine. As Egyptian law requires the head of a household to purchase grain directly from the Viceroy of Egypt,	לְבָנָיו
why	לָמָה
do you stand around and look αt each other?"	ּתְרָאוּ
Genesis 42:2
Astounded by his sons' inability to grasp the importance of going to Egypt to purchase grain, Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) resorts to addressing them in a more aggressive manner, and says,	וַיּׂאמֶר
"I beheld passersby with wagonloads of newly-purchase grain and	הנה
I heard from them	שָׁמַעְתִּי
that	÷ = וּיִי- כּי
there is	. יַשׁ
grain for sale	 ישֶׁבֶר
in Egypt.	בָּמִצְרָיִם בְּמִצְרָיִם
Go down	ַרַדּוּ רַדוּ
there (to Egypt),	שַׁמַה
and purchase	ָוִשְׁבָרוּ וְשָׁבָרוּ
for us as much grain	ַלַנוּ לַנוּ
from there as they are willing to sell. Purchase grain from Egypt,	ָ מִשָּׁם and we may yet live to see the end of the seven-year famine. Go to Egypt	ָוְנָחְיֶה וְנָחְיֶה and do not deviate from accomplishing the task at hand or	ַוְלֹא וְלֹא
we may die of starvation."	נָמוּת
Genesis 42:3	- T
Motivated by their father to purchase grain, Yaakov's (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) sons prepare for and go down to Egypt. At the time he commands ten of his twelve sons to go to Egypt to purchase grain, Yaakov does not know that the	וַבּּרְדוּ
brothers of	אֲחֵי
Yoseif (Joseph) (with the exception of Binyomin) sold Yoseif into slavery. Yaakov is also	יוֹסֵף unaware that his sons are intent upon reuniting their estranged brother with their father.

Ten of Yaakov's twelve sons set out	ַצְשָׂרָה אֲשָׂרָה
to buy	ַבְּשָׁנַיוּ לִשָּׁבּר
grain	ַר בַּר
from Egypt.	•
Genesis 42:4	מִמִּצְרָיִם
His sons (with the exception of Binyomin), having deceived him into believing Yoseif	וָאֶת
(Joseph), his most beloved son is dead, Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) refrains	112 from allowing Binyomin to accompany his brothers to Egypt and takes comfort with having Binyomin,
brother of	בַּנְיָמִין ערי
	אַחִי יימר
Yoseif, by his side. Yaakov cares not what his sons might think about their father	יוֹסֵף ביי
not	לא ייי ב -
sending Binyomin to Egypt.	שֶׁלַח
Yaakov adamantly refuses to allow Binyomin to go	יַעַקֹב
with	אָת
his brothers to Egypt,	אָחָיו
because as he	כָּי
said to himself prior to their return journey, "If I allow Binyomin to journey to Egypt,	אָמַר
perhaps death or harm	פָּן will befall him. Keeping Binyomin at home will ensure that I avoid the	יִקְרָאֶנּוּ
tragedy of losing another son."	אָסוֹן
Genesis 42:5
The onset of the seven-year famine necessitates everyone having to queue up to	וַיָּבֹאוּ purchase grain stored in the Egyptian granaries. Yisrael (Israel) a/k/a (Yaakov)) tasked his sons with purchasing Egyptian grain, and when they came to find themselves situated in the land of Egypt, the sons of	רְנֵי
Yisrael, determined	יִשְׂרָאֵל
to buy grain, feared the Egyptians might react adversely toward foreigners in their midst and single them out from	לִשְׂבּר
among	בְתוֹךְ
the ones going there to purchase grain. People from the four corners of planet Earth came to Egypt	הַבָּאִים because they lack food and believe that no new crops will be forthcoming for the next	 בי
seven years. The seven-year famine	7 is afflicting everyone on planet Earth. Yisrael sent his sons to Egypt because God's holy	 הָיָה land of Canaan was not exempt from the affliction caused by	,,,, the famine. There is famine	ָהָרָעָב הָרָעָב
in the land of
Canaan because God wants to force the sons of Yisrael to interact and reunite with	בָּאֶרֶץ דיטי
Yoseif (Joseph). God's implement of a famine will also have relevance in the future	כָּנָעַן when the newly emancipated children of Yisrael, led by Moshe (Moses), while leaving Egypt, take with them Egypt's largesse amassed by the sale of grain during the seven Laypt, take with them Laypt's largesse amassed by the sale of grain during the seven years of famine. During the post-exilic era, the Egyptian fortune, in the hands of God's covenant-observant people, will facilitate the manner in which God wants their destiny to unfold.

Genesis 42:6
As Viceroy of Egypt, Yoseif (Joseph) conceived and implemented an impartial system of grain disbursement that earned him the admiration and respect of all (including his father Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) who, upon hearing of the Viceroy of Egypt's fairness, was eager to send his sons to purchase grain from him). As a means of knowing when his brothers arrived in Egypt to purchase grain, Yoseif issued a proclamation mandating the writing down of the name of each individual grain purchaser and the name of their father. Yoseif's other reasons for documenting personal information about grain purchasers is (i) to determine how much grain to apportion to each household; (ii) to deter hoarding; (iii) to prevent inequitable distribution of grain; and (iv) to prevent the reselling of grain at exorbitant prices. Upon learning his brothers are in Egypt, Yoseif will have them arrested and brought before him. Despite his eagerness to see his brothers, he will withhold revealing his identity, and Yoseif's brothers, rather than knowing they are in the presence of their brother, will	וְיוֹסֵף perceive the Egyptian as the Viceroy of Egypt. Empowered by Pharaoh, he (Yoseif) is	הוא
the supreme ruler	הַשַּׁלִּיט
on matters involving the selling of the world's only source of grain. Prior to the famine, Yoseif had the foresight to extract grain from	עַל the land of Egypt, store in granaries, and sell it to the masses. Yoseif's strategy is to continue hiding his identity from his brothers until	הָאָרֶץ
he compels them to comport themselves in the selfsame manner as envisioned in the prophecies he received from God. Unaware that the Viceroy of Egypt and Yoseif are one in the same, his brothers will perceive him as	הוא
the one in charge of selling the world's only source of grain	הַמַּשְׁבִּיר
to all the	ַרָּל לְכָּל
people heretofore dependent upon	עַם
the land for nourishment yielded during the years of agricultural abundance. Everyone has an equal opportunity to survive the seven-year famine because Yoseif had the foresight to store grain during the seven years of abundance and sell it throughout the seven years of famine. Yoseif's brothers refrain from queuing up to purchase food and utilize their time in Egypt buy Yoseif's freedom, return him home and right the wrong of selling him into slavery. Frustrated by his inability to find his brothers, Yoseif dispatches many guards to find, arrest, and situate them before him. The Egyptians find and arrest the sons of Yaakov. Yoseif awaits his brothers' arrival,	הָאָרֶץ and when they come to find themselves situated in his presence, his	וַיָּבֹאוּ
brothers fail to realize that	אֲחֵי
Yoseif and the Viceroy of Egypt are one in the same. Upon hearing the announcement of the Viceroy of Egypt's name (Tzafnas Paneiach), the sons of Yaakov have no reason to suspect that he is their brother whom they betrayed	יוֹמֵף to suspect that he is their brother whom they betrayed, and as a gesture of respect, bow	ַניִּשְׂתַּחֲווּ בּיִּ

to him with their

faces

לוֹ

אַפַּיִם

to the ground.	אָרְצָה
Genesis 42:7
An arrest is the means by which Yoseif (Joseph) reunites with his brothers, and upon seeing them for the first time since they sold him into slavery, is overwhelmed with the reattachment of the fraternal connection severed by past betrayal.	וַיַּרָא
Yoseif is alone	יוֹסֵף
with	את
with his brothers and the passage of time makes it difficult for him to ascertain one brother from the other. Yoseif studies their facial features and their demeanor	ָ אָחָיו and transitions into being able to recognize all of them. Yoseif is greatly relieved that his brothers are unable to recognize him, and to perpetuate his anonymity a while longer, effects a demeanor antithetical to his own,	וַיַּכָּרֵם
and makes himself out to be a stranger	וַיִּתְנַכֵּר
to them,	אֲלֵיהֶם
and speaks	ַר רַיְדַבָּר
to them	אָתַם
harshly,	קשות
and says	וַיֹּאמֵר
to them,	ַ . אַלֵּהֶם
"From where	בָּי ִי יֶּ מֵאַיִן did you come?" Yoseif's brothers respond to the Viceroy of Egypt's question,	בַּאתֵם and say, "We came	ַוי <sup>י</sup> אמָרוּ וַיּאמָרוּ
from the land of	ַ י מַאָּרֶץ
Canaan	ָּבָנַעַן כָּנַעַן
to buy	ייי קשְׁבָּר
food."	. י י י אֹכֵל אֹכֵל
Genesis 42:8
Yoseif (Joseph) finishes interacting with his estranged brothers, and although he recognizes them, they fail to recognize him.	רַפַּר
Yoseif, the last time he interacted	יוֹמֵף
with	אָת
his brothers, fell victim to siblings whose jealousy motivated them to sell him into slavery. Yoseif's brothers gaze upon their bearded captor,	ָ אֶחָיו
and they are	וָהָם
not able to	לא
recognize him because at the time they betrayed him, he was young and beardless.	הָכָּרָהוּ
Genesis 42:9
Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers (with the exception of Binyomin) turned on and sold him into slavery because he enunciated two dreams that prophesied his lording over them and Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)). In lieu of killing him, Yoseif's brothers settle upon selling him into slavery. Yoseif's thoughts travel back to the time when all the sons of Yaakov are young and harbored no animus toward one another, and upon recalling his prophetic dreams portending of all his brothers subservience to him, realizes that the absence of his brother Binyomin meant that this particular prophetic dream had yet to come to fruition.	ַניּזְכּ ׂ ר
Yoseif,	יוֹסֵף

the same. Unaware that what they are about to say will be applicable both Yoseif and themselves, Yoseif's brothers say to Yoseif, "My lord, all of us are sons of the same "בַּנַי מַּאַי שַׁ man who sent us here for the sole purpose of purchasing food from you. Sons of סחפ man are שָּׁהַנִי מַנִּים שַּׁרִּים שַּׁרִּים שַּׁרִים שַּׁרִּים שַּׁרִּים שַּׁרִים שַׁרִים שַּׁרִים שַּׁרְים שִּׁרְּים שִּׁרְים שִּׁרְים שִּׁרְים שִּׁרְּים שִּׁרְים שִּׁרְים שִּׁרְים שִּׁרְים שִּׁרְים שִּׁרְים שְׁרִים שְׁרִים שְׁרִים שִּׁרְים שִּׁרְּים שְׁרִים שְׁרְּים שִּׁרְּים שִּׁרְּים שִּׁרְים שְׁרְּים שִּׁרְים שְׁרְּיִים שִׁרְּים שִּׁרְים שְׁרְּים שְׁרְים שְׁרְּים שְׁרְים שְׁרְּים שְׁרִים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרִים שְׁרְים שְׁרְּים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְּים שְׁרְּים שְׁרְּים שְׁרְּים שְׁרְּים שְׁרְּים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְּיִים שְׁרְים שְׁרְּיִים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְיִים שְׁרְיִים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְיִים שְׁרְים שְׁרְיִים שְׁרְיִים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְיִים שְׁרְיִים שְׁרְיִים שְׁרִים שְׁרְיִים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְיִים שְׁרְיִים שְׁרְים שְׁרְיִים שְׁרְים שְׁרְיִים שְׁרְיִים שְׁרְים שְׁרְיִים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְּׁרְים שְׁרְיִּים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְיִּים שְׁרְיִים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְּים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרִּים שְׁרְּים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְים שְׁרְי	with regard to the affirmation of his prophetic prowess manifesting itself in his correct interpretation of the prophetic dreams of Pharaoh's baker, Pharaoh's wine steward and	אָת
that he dreamt in his youth are viable and unfolding in the selfsame manner as prophesized. ביר און אין אין אין אין אין אין אין אין אין אי	Pharaoh, realizes that he dreamt in his youth are viable and unfolding in the selfsame manner as prophesized. For Yoseif, becoming Viceroy of Egypt validates the prophetic dreams of his youth portending his superiority  to them (his brothers). Realizing that Binyomin's presence is the key to bringing about the realization of his prophetic vision in which all his brothers demonstrate subservience toward him, Yoseif must utilize his power to force them to bring his youngest brother to Egypt. Yoseif meets with and says  to them, "Rather than perceiving you as ones whose primary objective is to purchase grain, I perceive you as ones whose primary objective is to purchase grain, I perceive you as ones spying on Egypt to determine if we are conquerable. Spies are you'l believe you came to Egypt  to see if we are conquerable. I have documentation showing each of you entering into Egypt through a different gate. As you are from the same clan, why would you not enter through the same gate? I suspect you entered Egypt separately rather than en masse  with the intent of ascertaining our vulnerabilities. You seek to find the weak, naked underbelly of the land of Egypt, and if found, return from whence you came and reveal our vulnerabilities to your compatriots."  Genesis 42:10  Astonished by the Viceroy of Egypt's accusation, Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers are intent upon imploring him to grant them an opportunity to prove their innocence, and say to him, "My lord, we are not spies!  Astonished by the Viceroy of Egypt's accusation, Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers are intent upon imploring him to grant them an opportunity to prove their innocence, and say to him, "My lord, we are not spies!  Astonished by the Viceroy of Egypt's accusation, Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers are intent upon imploring him to grant them an opportunity to prove their innocence, and say to him, "My lord, we are not spies!  Astonished by the Viceroy of Egypt's accusation, Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers are intent upon imploring him to grant them an opportunity to prove their innocence, an	the prophetic dreams	הַחֲלֹמוֹת
For Yoseif, becoming Viceroy of Egypt validates the prophetic dreams of his youth portending his superiority to them (his brothers). Realizing that Binyomin's presence is the key to bringing about the realization of his prophetic vision in which all his brothers demonstrate subservience toward him, Yoseif must utilize his power to force them to bring his youngest brother to Egypt. Yoseif meets with and says to them, "Rather than perceiving you as ones whose primary objective is to purchase grain, I perceive you as ones spying on Egypt to determine if we are conquerable. Spies are prophyla a different gate. I have documentation showing each of you entering into Egypt through a different gate. As you are from the same clan, why would you not enter through the same gate? I suspect you entered Egypt separately rather than en masse with him the intent of ascertaining our vulnerabilities. You seek to find the weak, nk anked underbelly of the land of Egypt, and if found, return from whence you came and reveal our vulnerabilities to your compatriots." Days Astonished by the Viceroy of Egypt's accusation, Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers are intent upon imploring him to grant them an opportunity to prove their innocence, and say to him, "My lord, we are not spies!  My lord, knowing that you control the world's only source of food, we would be foolish to jeopardize our very life with thoughts of conquering Egypt, and we your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we made to Egypt is to buy food."  Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers are unaware that Yoseif and the Viceroy of Egypt are one in the same. Unaware that what they are about to say will be applicable both Yoseif and themselves, Yoseif's brothers say to Yoseif, "My lord, all of us are sons of the same  Man who sent us here for the sole purpose of purchasing food from you. Sons of we.  Honest ones are	that	אַשֶּׁר
to them (his brothers). Realizing that Binyomin's presence is the key to bringing about the realization of his prophetic vision in which all his brothers demonstrate subservience toward him, Yoseif must utilize his power to force them to bring his youngest brother to Egypt. Yoseif meets with and says to them, "Rather than perceiving you as ones whose primary objective is to purchase grain, I perceive you as ones spying on Egypt to determine if we are conquerable. Spies are you'l believe you came to Egypt cose if we are conquerable. I have documentation showing each of you entering into Egypt through a different gate. As you are from the same clan, why would you not enter through the same gate? I suspect you entered Egypt separately rather than en masse with the intent of ascertaining our vulnerabilities. You seek to find the weak, naked underbelly of the land of Egypt, and if found, return from whence than of Egypt, and if found, return from whence you came and reveal our vulnerabilities to your compatriots."  Genesis 42:10  Astonished by the Viceroy of Egypt's accusation, Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers are intent upon imploring him to grant them an opportunity to prove their innocence, and say to him, "My lord, we are not spies!  My lord, knowing that you control the world's only source of food, we would be foolish to jeopardize our very life with thoughts of conquering Egypt, and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we not spies!  My lord, knowing that they are about to say will be applicable both Yoseif and the same. Unaware that what they are about to say will be applicable both Yoseif and the same. Unaware that what they are about to say will be applicable both Yoseif and the same. Unaware that what they are about to say will be applicable both Yoseif and the same. Unaware that what they are about to say will be applicable both Yoseif and themselves, Yoseif's brothers say to Yoseif, "My lord, all of us are sons of the same nan are long the same nan are long the same nan are long the	For Yoseif, becoming Viceroy of Egypt validates the prophetic dreams of his youth	חָלַם
to them, "Rather than perceiving you as ones whose primary objective is to purchase grain, I perceive you as  ones spying on Egypt to determine if we are conquerable. Spies are  אינר אָליר וויי ליינר ליינר וויי ליינר ווי ליינר וויי ליינר ווי ליינר וויי	to them (his brothers). Realizing that Binyomin's presence is the key to bringing about the realization of his prophetic vision in which all his brothers demonstrate subservience toward him, Yoseif must utilize his power to force them to bring his	לָהֶם
grain, I perceive you as  ones spying on Egypt to determine if we are conquerable. Spies are  you'l believe you came to Egypt  to see if we are conquerable. I have documentation showing each of you entering into Egypt through a different gate. As you are from the same clan, why would you not enter through the same gate? I suspect you entered Egypt separately rather than en masse  with the intent of ascertaining our vulnerabilities. You seek to find the weak, maked underbelly of the land of Egypt, and if found, return from whence you came and reveal our vulnerabilities to your compatriots."  Genesis 42:10  Astonished by the Viceroy of Egypt's accusation, Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers are intent upon imploring him to grant them an opportunity to prove their innocence, and say to him, "My lord, we are not spies!  My lord, knowing that you control the world's only source of food, we would be foolish to jeopardize our very life with thoughts of conquering Egypt, and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we came to Egypt is to buy food."  Genesis 42:12  Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers are unaware that Yoseif and the Viceroy of Egypt are one in the same. Unaware that what they are about to say will be applicable both Yoseif and themselves, Yoseif's brothers say to Yoseif, "My lord, all of us are sons of the same man who sent us here for the sole purpose of purchasing food from you. Sons of men an are we.  Honest ones are	and says	ַ וַיּאמֶר
מופג syying on Egypt to determine if we are conquerable. Spies are אָרָבּיִּלִים בּשִׁים וּשִׁים בּשִּׁים בּשִּׁים בּשִּׁים בּשִּים בּשִּׁים בּשִּׁים וּשִּׁים בּשִּׁים בּשִּים בּשִּׁים בּשִּים בּשִיים בּשִּים בּשִּיים בּשִּיים בּשִּיים בּשִּיים בּשִּיים בּשִיים בּשִּיים בְּיים בּשִּיים בְּשִּיים ב		אֲלֵהֶם
you! I believe you came to Egypt to see if we are conquerable. I have documentation showing each of you entering into Egypt through a different gate. As you are from the same clan, why would you not enter through the same gate? I suspect you entered Egypt separately rather than en masse  with the intent of ascertaining our vulnerabilities. You seek to find the weak,  naked underbelly of  the land of Egypt, and if found, return from whence you came and reveal our vulnerabilities to your compatriots."  Genesis 42:10  Astonished by the Viceroy of Egypt's accusation, Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers are intent upon imploring him to grant them an opportunity to prove their innocence, and say  to him, "My lord, we are not spies!  My lord, knowing that you control the world's only source of food, we would be foolish to jeopardize our very life with thoughts of conquering Egypt, and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we  ame to Egypt is  to buy  food."  Genesis 42:11  Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers are unaware that Yoseif and the Viceroy of Egypt are one in the same. Unaware that what they are about to say will be applicable both Yoseif and themselves, Yoseif's brothers say to Yoseif, "My lord, all of us are  sons of the same  man who sent us here for the sole purpose of purchasing food from you. Sons of one man are  we.  Honest ones are	3 ' 1 '	 מרגָלים to see if we are conquerable. I have documentation showing each of you entering into Egypt through a different gate. As you are from the same clan, why would you not enter through the same gate? I suspect you entered Egypt separately rather than en masse  with the intent of ascertaining our vulnerabilities. You seek to find the weak, naked underbelly of  the land of Egypt, and if found, return from whence you came and reveal our vulnerabilities to your compatriots."  Genesis 42:10  Astonished by the Viceroy of Egypt's accusation, Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers are intent upon imploring him to grant them an opportunity to prove their innocence, and say to him, "My lord, we are not spies!  My lord, knowing that you control the world's only source of food, we would be foolish to jeopardize our very life with thoughts of conquering Egypt, and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we  ame to Egypt is to buy food."  Genesis 42:11  Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers are unaware that Yoseif and the Viceroy of Egypt are one in the same. Unaware that what they are about to say will be applicable both Yoseif and themselves, Yoseif's brothers say to Yoseif, "My lord, all of us are  sons of the same  you man who sent us here for the sole purpose of purchasing food from you. Sons of one man are  we.  Honest ones are
תמגפל underbelly of ליינית the land of Egypt, and if found, return from whence ניאקר משנים משנים בשנים של found of Egypt, and if found, return from whence בשנים משנים	to see if we are conquerable. I have documentation showing each of you entering into Egypt through a different gate. As you are from the same clan, why would you not enter through the same gate? I suspect you entered Egypt separately rather than en	•
תמגפל underbelly of ליינית the land of Egypt, and if found, return from whence ניאקר משנים משנים בשנים של found of Egypt, and if found, return from whence בשנים משנים	with the intent of ascertaining our vulnerabilities. You seek to find the weak.	את
the land of Egypt, and if found, return from whence קאָרֶבּי you came and reveal our vulnerabilities to your compatriots."  Genesis 42:10  Astonished by the Viceroy of Egypt's accusation, Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers are intent upon imploring him to grant them an opportunity to prove their innocence, and say to him, "My lord, we are not spies!  My lord, knowing that you control the world's only source of food, we would be foolish to jeopardize our very life with thoughts of conquering Egypt, and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we  and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we  and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we  and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we  and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we  and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we  and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we  and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we  and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we  and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we  and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we  and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we  and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we  and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we  and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we  and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we  and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we  and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we  and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we  and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we  and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we  and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only
אַכָּרוי אַ אַמָרוי אַ אַמָרוי אַ אַמָרוי אַ אַמָרוי אַרָּמָרוי אַרָּמָרוי אַרָּמָרוי אַרָּמָרוי אַרָּמָרוי אַרָּמָרוי אַרָּמָרוי אַרָּמָרוי אַרָּמָרוי אַרָּמִרוּ אַ אַרִּיי אַרִּי אַרִּיי אַ אַרִּי אַ אַרִּי אַרִי אַרִּי אַ אַרִּי אַ אַרִּי אַרִּי אַרִּי אַרִּי אַרִּי אַ אַרִי אַרִּי אַ אַרִּי אַ אַרִּי אַ אַרִּי אַ אַרִּי אַרִי אַרְי אַרְי אַרְי אָרִי אָרִי אָרִי אָרִי אָרִי אָרִי אָרִי אַרִי אַרִי אַרִי אַרִי אַרִי אַרִי אַרִי אַרְי אַרְי אַרְי אַרְי אַרְי אַרְי אַרְרי אַרִי אַרְי אַרִי אַרְי אָרִי אָרִי אָרִי אָרִי אָרִי אָרִי אָרִי אָרִי אָרְ אַרְי אָרִי אָרְי אָרִי אָרִי אָרִי אָרִי אָרִי אָרְי אָרִי אָרְי אָרִי אָרְ אַרְרִי אַרְיי אָרְי אָרְר אָר אָרִי אָרְר אָר אַרְיי אָרְר אָר אָרִי אָר אָרְי אָרְר אָר אָרִיי אָר אָרְיי אָר מלינו אין
Astonished by the Viceroy of Egypt's accusation, Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers are intent upon imploring him to grant them an opportunity to prove their innocence, and say  to him, "My lord, we are "אַלְיני My lord, knowing that you control the world's only source of food, we would be foolish to jeopardize our very life with thoughts of conquering Egypt,  and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we 「בְּעַבְּבָיִי הַ to buy  food."  Genesis 42:11  Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers are unaware that Yoseif and the Viceroy of Egypt are one in the same. Unaware that what they are about to say will be applicable both Yoseif and themselves, Yoseif's brothers say to Yoseif, "My lord, all of us are  sons of the same  man who sent us here for the sole purpose of purchasing food from you. Sons of we.  Honest ones are  ### Honest ones are to him, "My lord, we are ילָלוּר My lord, knowing that you control the world's only source of food, we would be foolish to jeopardize our very life with thoughts of conquering Egypt, and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we בְּעַבְּדֶינְּדְ to buy food."  Genesis 42:11  Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers are unaware that Yoseif and the Viceroy of Egypt are one in the same. Unaware that what they are about to say will be applicable both Yoseif and themselves, Yoseif's brothers say to Yoseif, "My lord, all of us are sons of the same man who sent us here for the sole purpose of purchasing food from you. Sons of one man are  We.  Honest ones are	Astonished by the Viceroy of Egypt's accusation, Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers are intent	ַוּיֹאמְרוּ
אַדנִי אַקר.  My lord, knowing that you control the world's only source of food, we would be foolish to jeopardize our very life with thoughts of conquering Egypt, and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we  בְּעַבְּדִידָּ  to buy food."  Genesis 42:11  Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers are unaware that Yoseif and the Viceroy of Egypt are one in the same. Unaware that what they are about to say will be applicable both Yoseif and themselves, Yoseif's brothers say to Yoseif, "My lord, all of us are  sons of the same man who sent us here for the sole purpose of purchasing food from you. Sons of the same man are we.  Honest ones are		אליו
אַדֹנִי אַדְנִי אַנְיי אַדְנִי אַנְיי אַדְנִי אַדְנִי אַדְיי אַדְּנִי אַנְיי אַדְנִי אַנְיי אַדְנִי אַנְיי אַדְנִי אַדְנִי אַנְיי אַדְנִי אַנְיי אַדְנִי אַנְיי אַבְּיי אַבְיי אַבְּיי אַבְיי אַרְיי אַבְיי אַרְיי אַבְיי אָי אַבְיי אַרְיי אָי אָבְי אַר אָי אַבְיי אָי אָבְיי אָי אָבְיי אָי אַבְיי אָי אָר אָי אָר אָי אָר אָי אָר אָי אָבְיי אָי אָּבְיי אָּי אָר אָי אָר אָי אָר אָי אָר אָי אָר	, , ,
במme to Egypt is  to buy  food."  Genesis 42:11  Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers are unaware that Yoseif and the Viceroy of Egypt are one in the same. Unaware that what they are about to say will be applicable both Yoseif and themselves, Yoseif's brothers say to Yoseif, "My lord, all of us are  sons of the same  man who sent us here for the sole purpose of purchasing food from you. Sons of one man are  we.  Honest ones are	My lord, knowing that you control the world's only source of food, we would be foolish
ל ני לישָׁבֶּר food."  Genesis 42:11  Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers are unaware that Yoseif and the Viceroy of Egypt are one in the same. Unaware that what they are about to say will be applicable both Yoseif and themselves, Yoseif's brothers say to Yoseif, "My lord, all of us are  sons of the same man who sent us here for the sole purpose of purchasing food from you. Sons of one man are  we.  Honest ones are	and we, your servants, implore you to believe that the only reason we	ַוַ עֲבָ דֶיךְ
אֹכֶל פּ denesis 42:11 Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers are unaware that Yoseif and the Viceroy of Egypt are one in the same. Unaware that what they are about to say will be applicable both Yoseif and themselves, Yoseif's brothers say to Yoseif, "My lord, all of us are sons of the same "בַּיַב אַרָּיִב אַרָּיב אַר אַרָּיב אַרָּיב אַרָּיב אַרָּיב אַר אַרָּיב אַרָּיב אַרָּיב אַר	came to Egypt is
אֹכֶל פּ denesis 42:11 Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers are unaware that Yoseif and the Viceroy of Egypt are one in the same. Unaware that what they are about to say will be applicable both Yoseif and themselves, Yoseif's brothers say to Yoseif, "My lord, all of us are sons of the same "בַּיַב אַרָּיִב אַרָּיב אַר אַרָּיב אַרָּיב אַרָּיב אַרָּיב אַר אַרָּיב אַרָּיב אַרָּיב אַר	to buy	ַ לִשָּבַּר
לַבְּלֶבוּ Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers are unaware that Yoseif and the Viceroy of Egypt are one in the same. Unaware that what they are about to say will be applicable both Yoseif and themselves, Yoseif's brothers say to Yoseif, "My lord, all of us are sons of the same "בַּנַי מַּמָּי מַשְׁ שׁמַּח who sent us here for the sole purpose of purchasing food from you. Sons of מַנִים ### ################################
Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers are unaware that Yoseif and the Viceroy of Egypt are one in the same. Unaware that what they are about to say will be applicable both Yoseif and themselves, Yoseif's brothers say to Yoseif, "My lord, all of us are sons of the same man who sent us here for the sole purpose of purchasing food from you. Sons of one man are we.  Honest ones are		-
אָנוֹי sons of the same man who sent us here for the sole purpose of purchasing food from you. Sons of one man are we. Honest ones are	Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers are unaware that Yoseif and the Viceroy of Egypt are one in the same. Unaware that what they are about to say will be applicable both Yoseif and	כַּלְנוּ man who sent us here for the sole purpose of purchasing food from you. Sons ofשלי אַ אָדָיּדּone man areאָדָיִדּwe.נְּחָנוּHonest ones areבַּנִים		בני one man areאָתָדwe.נַּחָנוּHonest ones areבַנִים
we. tipper sare  Honest ones are		• Honest ones are בַּנִים
	we. We are	אַנַחָנוּ אֵנַחָנוּ not spice as my lord suspects. We some of Vankey (Jaseb) alk/a Vierael (Jerael)) standing not spies as my lord suspects. We sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) standing before my lord	לא are your servants. We are not, as my lord suspects,	. עֲבָדֶיךְּ ones spying on Egypt. We did not come here to ascertain Egypt's weakness as prelude	מְר ַגְּלִים

to attacking her."
Genesis 42:12
Yoseif (Joseph) has to maintain his anonymity to enable his brothers' fate to unfold as	וַיּׂאמֶר envisioned in his prophetic dreams. After accusing his brothers of spying and feigning disbelief in their assertion of innocence, Yoseif intends to rebuke and says to them, "Is purchasing food the only reason you came to Egypt? I say	אֲלֵהֶם
no! I believe your reason	לא
for coming to Egypt is to discover the weak,	בּֿי
naked underbelly of	עֶרְוַת
the land.	הָאָרֶץ
You came to Egypt	בָּאתֶם to see if we are conquerable. Upon ascertaining our vulnerabilities, you will return	לְרָאוֹת home, reveal our weaknesses to your compatriots, and attack Egypt."
Genesis 42:13
Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers are desperate to convince Yoseif of their innocence, and say,	וַיּאמְרוּ
"It may interest my lord to know that two of our brothers are absent from these proceedings. The	שְׁנֵים ten sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) standing before my lord pledge our	עָשָׂר loyalty and swear to continue as your loyal and faithful servants.	אֲבָדֶירְ
Brothers fathered by one man are we.	אַחִים
We ten	אֲנַחְנוּ sons of Yaakov are here on behalf of the	רָנֵי
man who sent us to Egypt to purchase food. Yaakov, the	אָיש
one residing	אֶחָד
in the land of	בָּאֶרֶץ
Canaan dispatched his sons to Egypt to acquire food. Our father insisted that his youngest son Binyomin remain with him,	בָּנָעַן and before leaving Canaan, we beheld Binyomin,	וְהִנֵּה
the small one (the youngest of our father's offspring), and took comfort knowing that in	הַקָּטֹן our absence, he will interact
with	אֶת
our father and spend	אָבִינוּ
the day tending to his needs. My lord Viceroy of Egypt should also know that there is	הַיּוֹם one son of Yaakov absent from these proceedings, and the one brother of whom we speak might be residing in Egypt. We desire to reunite	וְהָאֶחָד with our brother after a past twenty-two year separation, and believe he might be residing in Egypt. We hoped that entering Egypt separately would increase the likelihood of finding our brother. It is because he (our estranged brother) is not among us that we thought to enter Egypt at different gateways to cover more	אַינֶבּוּ ground and increase the likelihood of finding him."

~		• -
ı=Δr	าes	ıc	, ,	• 7 /

Genesis 42:14
Yoseif (Joseph) is convinced that his brothers came to Egypt to purchase food and reunite with him. Yoseif is determined to maintain his anonymity and to bring to	ַוּיֹאמֶר fruition, his brothers' fate as envisioned in his prophetic dreams. Yoseif continues feigning disbelief in their assertion of innocence and persists at accusing them of spying. Yoseif is intent upon intimidating his brothers into submission, and says things to convince them of the seriousness of the trumped-up charges leveled against them.	אָלֵהֶם
As a means of incriminating his brothers, Yoseif says, "I have learned through divination that you are the ones responsible for	יוֹסֵף destroying the city of Shechem. Your violent past leads me to believe that you are here to ascertain our weaknesses as prelude to attempting to conquer Egypt. You say you are here, in part to reunite with your brother. If, upon encountering him, you determine that his freedom is contingent upon paying a price beyond your means, would you liberate him by attacking his captors? If he of	הוא
whom I speak (your long-lost brother) is in our midst, and you are wont to commit	אָשֶׁר violence to liberate him, then I must declare that the sons of Yaakov pose a threat to Egyptian citizenry and as such, merit	דְּבַּרְתִּי
the imposition of a death sentence. I say unto you sons of Yaakov that given your proclivity toward inflicting mass casualties and	אֲלֵכֶם
the likelihood of the violence that may ensue if you attempt to achieve your objective in Egypt, I may have to put you to death to avoid Egyptian bloodshed. I implore everyone in this assemblage to witness the Viceroy of Egypt saying that he perceives you ten sons of Yaakov as a grave threat to Egypt and if tried	לֵאמֹר and convicted as
ones spying on Egypt,	מְרַגְּלִים
you will be put to death."	אַתֶּם
Genesis 42:15
To coerce his brothers into bringing Binyomin from Canaan to Egypt, Yoseif (Joseph)	בְּזֹאת says, "I believe that your brother Binyomin remained behind because you did not want to risk his life to accomplish your mission of spying upon Egypt. I will compel Binyomin to testify on your behalf in this matter to determine if you are innocent or guilty of spying. Having your brother Binyomin testify on your behalf is the means by which I shall test you to determine your guilt or innocence. I swear on the	הַבָּחֵנוּ הַבָּחֵנוּ
life of	תֵי
Pharaoh that I will determine	פַרְעֹה
whether	אָם
you ten sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) are guilty or innocent. I	תַּצְאוּ will allow you to depart from this place if Binyomin's testimony affirms your benign	מָּדָה attempt to procure food from our Egyptian granaries and reunite with your estranged brother. If I am to absolve you of spying charges, it will be because your youngest brother's testimony affirms your innocence.	פּֿי
If compelled to	אָם
come to testify on your behalf,	בְּבוֹא
your youngest brother, known as	אֲחִיכֶם ·
`the small one', when situated	הַקָּמֹן

here before me, will determine your guilt or innocence.	הַנָּה
Genesis 42:16
I was intent upon sending one of the ten sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel))	שׁלְחוּ back to Canaan to retrieve and bring Yaakov's youngest son back to Egypt to testify on behalf of his brothers. As a means of preventing you from coaching your youngest brother into uttering falsities to influence my judgment, I will send an emissary to Canaan. My emissary will ask Yaakov's leave to impart a message from you, his sons imploring him to allow Binyomin to accompany him back to Egypt to	מָכֶּם testify on his brothers' behalf. I will dispatch only one emissary who, after apprising Yaakov of your situation, will ask him to allow his	אֶחָד youngest son to accompany him back to Egypt to testify on his brothers' behalf, and upon receiving permission to take Binyomin back to Egypt, shall take your	וְיָקַּח youngest brother
with him and return to Egypt. I will wait until	אֶת
your youngest brother arrives in Egypt,	אֲחִיכֶם and you shall remain	וְאַתֶּם imprisoned until my emissary and your youngest brother appear before me. I will	הַאָּסְרוּ compel your youngest brother to testify as to your reason for coming to Egypt, and his testimony, in comparison to yours, will be the means by which I may determine	וְיִבָּחֲנוּ
if you are telling the truth. Binyomin's testimony will be the means by which to test your veracity. By contrasting your youngest brother's testimony with yours, I will be able to determine the veracity or falsity of your words. Upon hearing and contrasting your youngest brother's testimony with your	דָּבְרֵיכֶם testimonies, I will be able to determine if you speak the truth. I will determine whether or not there is	הַאֱמֶת within you a penchant for inflicting harm upon Egypt,	אָהְּכֶּם
and if you are	וְאָם
not telling the truth, then I swear on the	לא
life of	ָ הֵי
Pharaoh to put you to death. If Binyomin's testimony leads me to believe you came to	פַרְעֹה
Egypt to inflict harm,
then you, the	ַ כִּי
ones determined guilty of spying on Egypt will die.	מְרַגְּלִים
You will incur the death penalty if found guilty of spying!"	אַתָּם
Genesis 42:17
Yoseif (Joseph) informs his brothers that their youngest brother is to play a pivotal role	ֿוַיֶּאֱסֹף in determining their innocence or guilt. Yoseif intends to sequester his brothers while an emissary journeys to Canaan to collect and return Binyomin to Egypt to testify on their behalf. Yoseif ceases communicating with his brothers and places them in a prison cell. Yoseif orders his subordinates	אֹתָם
to keep the sons of Yaakov	אָל
under guard for	מִשְׁמָר
three	ישְלֹשֶׁת
days.	יָמִים
Genesis 42:18
Regretting his decision to imprison his brothers while waiting for Binyomin to make his	וַיּׂאמֶר initial appearance in Egypt, Yoseif (Joseph) changes his mind and thinks about what to say

אָלֵהֶם	to placate them. As a means of rescinding the initially harsh sentence imposed upon his ten brothers,
יוֹטֵף	Yoseif says, "Rather than aggrieving your father by imprisoning ten of his sons, with the exception of one, I will allow you to return to Canaan. I am tasking you with convincing your father to allow his youngest son, to come to Egypt to testify on your behalf. I am releasing nine of the ten sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) from prison
בַּיּוֹם	on this day
הַשְּׁלִישִׁי	(the third day of your incarceration).
זֹאת	This I
ּעֲשׂוּ	do because I realize that holding one son of Yaakov hostage should suffice to compel his brothers to implore their father to allow Binyomin to testify on their behalf. You shall be set free
וְחָיוּ	and live to see another day if Binyomin's testimony affirms your innocence. You shall die if Binyomin's testimony leads me to believe you are potential enemies of Egypt. I am familiar
אֶת	with The God Whom you worship and call 'The Elokim' (The Ruler of the Universe) and I know His penchant for interceding on behalf of your antecedents. I fear that
הָאֱלֹהִים	The Elokim might punish me if I maltreat you, and that is why I am proceeding cautiously with you, His loyal followers, because אֲנִי
יָרֵא	I fear incurring the His wrath.
	Genesis 42:19
אָם	As I am unable to determine if you are
כַּנִים	honest men, or if
אַתָּם	you intend to attack Egypt, I will continue imprisoning one of the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) and allow his siblings to return to Canaan to collect and bring back your youngest brother to testify on your behalf. Until you return with Binyomin, we will imprison
אַחִיכֵם	your brother (the
אַחַד	one
יָאָ ס ר יֵאָסֵר	confined
יֵאָסֵר בְּבֵית	confined in the prison house and placed under
יָאָ ט ר יֵאָטֵר	confined
 יֵאָסֵר בְּבֵית מִשְׁמַרְכָם	in the prison house and placed under guard),
ָאָסֵר בְּנִית מִשְׁמַרְכָם וְאַתָּם	in the prison house and placed under guard), and you, prior
יַאָסֵר בָּבֵית מִשְׁמַרְכֶם וְאַתָּם לְכוּ	confined in the prison house and placed under guard), and you, prior to going back to Canaan, will be allowed to purchase and bring
יָּאָסֵר בַּבֶּית מִשְׁמַרְכֶם וְאַתָּם לְכוּ הָבִיאוּ שָׁבֶּר	in the prison house and placed under guard), and you, prior to going back to Canaan, will be allowed
יַאָסֵר יַאָסֵר מִשְׁמַרְכֶם וְאַתֶּם לְכוּ הָבִיאוּ שָׁבֶּר רַעֲבוֹן	confined in the prison house and placed under guard), and you, prior to going back to Canaan, will be allowed to purchase and bring grain to assuage the
יַאָּסֵר יַאָּסֵר מִשְׁמַרְכֶם וְאַתֶּם לְכוּ הָבִיאוּ שְׁבֶּר רַעֲבוֹן	in the prison house and placed under guard), and you, prior to going back to Canaan, will be allowed to purchase and bring grain to assuage the hunger of the members of your respective households. After delivering the grain to your respective households,
יָּאָסֵר בָּבֶית מִשְׁמַרְכֶם וְאַתָּם לְכוּ הָבִיאוּ שָׁבֶּר	in the prison house and placed under guard), and you, prior to going back to Canaan, will be allowed to purchase and bring grain to assuage the hunger of the members of
יַאָּסֵר בָּבֵית מִשְׁמַרְכֶם וְאַתֶּם לְכוּ הָבִיאוּ שָׁבֶּר רַעֲבוֹן	in the prison house and placed under guard), and you, prior to going back to Canaan, will be allowed to purchase and bring grain to assuage the hunger of the members of your respective households. After delivering the grain to your respective households, you nine sons of Yaakov will return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on your behalf, Genesis 42:20
יַאָּסֵר בָּבִית מִשְׁמַרְכֶם וְאַתֶּם לְכוּ הָבִיאוּ שְׁבֶר בַּתִּיכֶם בָּתִּיכֶם	in the prison house and placed under guard), and you, prior to going back to Canaan, will be allowed to purchase and bring grain to assuage the hunger of the members of your respective households. After delivering the grain to your respective households, you nine sons of Yaakov will return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on your behalf, you shall bring him	הָבִיאוּ הַבִיאוּ

to me. Your youngest brother will be compelled to testify as a means of determining	אֵלַי
the veracity or falsity of your words, and they (your words professing innocence), depending upon your youngest brother's	וְיֵאָמְנוּ testimony may or may not be verifiable . Upon hearing Binyomin's testimony, I will determine the veracity of your words professing innocence,	דְבְרֵיכֶם
and if Binyomin's testimony does not convince me of your innocence,	וְלֹא you will die." The sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) contemplate the	תַמוּתוּ conditions put upon them by the Viceroy of Egypt,	· and they agree to leave one of their brothers in his custody. Doing as Yoseif (Joseph)	וַיַּעֲשׂוּ asks, and	•
in accordance with the only means by which they may be exonerated, the sons of	כֿוַ
Yaakov agree to leave one of their brothers in the custody of the Viceroy of Egypt,	7 journey back to Canaan, and return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf.
Genesis 42:21
Shame ensues after the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) contrast the	וַיֹּאמְרוּ Viceroy of Egypt's mercy toward them with their lack of mercy toward Yoseif, whom they betrayed and sold into slavery. Left alone, Yoseif's brothers are free to converse in an uninhibited manner and say to one another, "The incident precipitating the dire predicament besieging the sons of the man known as Yaakov can be traced back	אָישׁ to when we betrayed Yoseif, our brother, whom we sold into slavery. One should suffer	אַל אַל for betraying	. 4
his brother. We formulated a plan to rid ourselves of Yoseif and	אַחִיו most assuredly deserve punishment for betraying him. We took matters into our own	אָבָל אַבָּל hands, betrayed Yoseif, and await	ं च = व
punishment for our transgression.	אַשֶׁמִים
We,	אֲנַחְנוּ אֲנַחְנוּ
accountable for betraying	עַל עַל
our brother and should atone and accept whatever punishment the Viceroy of Egypt	אָחִינוּ אָחִינוּ envisions. What possessed us to betray him	/= //·÷
who is our flesh and blood?	אַשֶׂר
We brought about and saw the	יַנַ שֶּׁ רַאִינוּ anguish manifesting in	אָרַת זְיִי בּי
his (Yoseif's) soul, and did nothing to alleviate his suffering.	ַבָּיִיוּ נַפִּשׁוֹ
When he (Yoseif) implored us to extricate him from the pit, we decided that our brother	בָּכְשוּ בַּהָתְחַנְנוֹ
had become nothing	ابًا الرَّاءُ 1
to us,	אַלֵינוּ יביי
and did not do anything to aid and comfort him.	ַןלא ייימייני
We heard his cries, and rather than asking forgiveness and welcoming him back into our	שָׁמָעְנוּ brotherly fold, sold him into slavery. In addition to being	  accountable for imperiling Yoseif's life, we are accountable for imperiling our own lives.	ַעַל
Therefore, we must conclude that misfortune	בּוֹ
has come	בָּאָה
to us because we betrayed him.	אַלֵינוּ

The distress we inflicted upon Yoseif is the reason why we incurred the wrath of our God. Had it not been for our betraying Yoseif,	הַצָּרָה
the predicament in which we presently find ourselves would never have occurred. This	הַוֹאת 11840
predicament in which we find ourselves is the manner in which God punishes us for betraying Yoseif."
Genesis 42:22
Upon hearing his brothers commiserating over their dire predicament, Yaakov's (Jacob)	וַיַּעַן
a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) eldest son Reuvein intends to reprimand them for betraying Yoseif (Joseph) and provide an answer as to why they merit punishment.
Reuvein reproaches	רְאוּבֵן ·
them (his brothers) by	אֹתָם saying, "Twenty-two years ago, you conspired to kill Yoseif. I wanted no part in	לֵאמֹר bringing about his demise and thought to spare his life by convincing you to throw him into a pit and leave him to die. Unbeknownst to you, I was intent upon rescuing Yoseif from the pit, but when I returned to extricate him, he was gone. You demonstrated to God by selling Yoseif into slavery that you were not capable of putting aside your anger toward him. You incurred the wrath of God	הַלוֹא
Who, twenty-two years after the fact, is punishing us for selling Yoseif into slavery.
Remember what
I said	אָמַרְתִּי
to you twenty-two years ago when you were intent upon killing Yoseif? You witnessed	אֲלֵיכֶם my
saying,	לֵאמֹר
'Do not, by way of murder,	אַל
sin	ַ הַחֶטְאוּ
against the boy!' I was the lone voice of reason imploring my brothers to spare Yoseif	בַּיֶּלֶד בַיֶּלֶד
from harm,	**-
and not one of	וָלֹא
you listened to my call for mercy. If Yoseif is dead, God hears his blood cries as plainly as	שְׁמַ עְתֶּם
He heard Hevel's (Abel) blood cry after Kayin (Cain) killed him. We have punished our	—∀4 = ₹ father by foisting upon him the lie that Yoseif is dead, and we too await God's punishment and expect it to be commensurate with that which	וְגַם
we did to Yoseif. Is not our predicament evidence of God's response to the outcry of the	ΠÑİ spilling of his (Yoseif's) blood? Having	דַ מוֹ beheld the consequences of our actions, I believe that Yoseif's blood הנה :::
is being avenged by God seeking to exact retribution."	נִדְרָשׁ
Genesis 42:23
Yoseif (Joseph) situates the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) in his presence,	וְהֵם
and they,
not knowing the Viceroy of Egypt and Yoseif are one in the same, converse with one	לא another in Hebrew. Yoseif's brothers know	יָדְעוּ
that the Viceroy of Egypt (a/k/a Yoseif)	כָּי
is hearing every word they utter, but do not realize that	שֹׁמֵעַ
Yoseif understands everything they say. While in Yoseif's presence, Yoseif's brothers	יוֹמֵף

because Yoseif's son Menasheh, ### the one responsible for interpreting all that is said ### the one responsible for interpreting all that is said ### the one responsible for interpreting all that is said ### between them is no longer in their presence.    Caping	express themselves freely, in their Hebrew tongue,
the one responsible for interpreting all that is said #Petween them is no longer in their presence. ### between them is no longer in their presence. ### Sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) are under the mistaken belief that the Viceroy of Egypt (a/k/a Yoseif (Joseph) does not understand Hebrew. Yoseif is brought to tears from hearing his brothers express their contriteness for having wronged him, and to avoid their seeing him crying, turns away from them, ### and after removing himself from their presence, weeps in the privacy of his antechamber. Yoseif regains his composure ### and accompanied by his interpreter, returns ### and accompanied by his interpreter, returns ### and resumes speaking ### to them. Yoseif commands his brothers to decide which of the ten sons of Yaakov ### and resumes speaking ### to them. Yoseif commands his brothers to decide which of the ten sons of Yaakov ### should remain behind as a hostage while the other siblings journey to Canaan and return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf. Yoseif tells his brothers that he will sequester them until they decide upon which son of Yaakov is to remain behind as a hostage, Yoseif chooses Shimon because of his role as the main proponent arguing in favor of putting him to death, and the one who threw him into the pit. Yoseif signals for and commands his guards to take Shimon #### from them (his brothers). Not willing to comply #### with becoming a hostage, Shimon girds himself against the guards determined to take him prisoner. Confronted by seventy guards.  #### Shimon fends off their attempt to subdue him. Yoseif reacts to the inability of seventy guards to overpower Shimon by dispatching Menasheh to subdue him. Menasheh strikes Shimon once, renders him unconscious  #### and binds #### him in chains. Unwilling #### to have your subdued and bound their brother.  ##### Shimon once, renders him unconscious  ###### to have your subdued and bound their brother.  ###### Shim in chains. Unwilling #### to have your subdued		כֵּי
Detween them is no longer in their presence.    Genesis 42:22   The sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) are under the mistaken belief that the Viceroy of Egypt (a/k/a Yoseif (Joseph) does not understand Hebrew. Yoseif is brought to tears from hearing his brothers express their contriteness for having wronged him, and to avoid their seeing him crying, turns away    from them,	·
Genesis 42:24         The sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) are under the mistaken belief that the Viceroy of Egypt (a/k/a Yoseif (Joseph) does not understand Hebrew. Yoseif is brought to tears from hearing his brothers express their contriteness for having wronged him, and to avoid their seeing him crying, turns away from them,         Day'ywa           and after removing himself from their presence, weeps in the privacy of his antechamber. Yoseif regains his composure         Day'ywa           and accompanied by his interpreter, returns         Day'ywa           to them (his brothers). Yoseif instructs his translator to engage the sons of Yaakov         Day'ywa           and resumes speaking         Day'ywa           to them. Yoseif commands his brothers to decide which of the ten sons of Yaakov should remain behind as a hostage while the other siblings journey to Canaan and return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf. Yoseif tells his brothers that he will sequester them until they decide upon which son of Yaakov is to remain behind as a hostage. After his brothers fail to designate one of the sons of Yaakov as a hostage, Yoseif chooses Shimon because of his role as the main proponent arguing in favor of putting him to death, and the one who threw him into the pit. Yoseif signals for and commands his guards to take Shimon         Day'xy           shimon fends off their attempt to subdue him. Yoseif reacts to the inability of seventy guards, Shimon fends off their attempt to subdue him. Yoseif reacts to the inability of seventy guards to overpower Shimon by dispatching Menasheh to subdue him. Menasheh strikes Shimon once, renders him unconscious         Dayxy           him in chains. Unwilling		בֵּינֹתַם בֵּינֹתַם
The sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) are under the mistaken belief that the Viceroy of Egypt (a/k/a Yoseif (Joseph) does not understand Hebrew. Yoseif is brought to tears from hearing his brothers express their contriteness for having wronged him, and to avoid their seeing him crying, turns away from them, and after removing himself from their presence, weeps in the privacy of his antechamber. Yoseif regains his composure and accompanied by his interpreter, returns to them (his brothers). Yoseif instructs his translator to engage the sons of Yaakov should remain behind as a hostage while the other siblings journey to Canaan and return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf. Yoseif tells his brothers that he will sequester them until they decide upon which son of Yaakov is to remain behind as a hostage. After his brothers fail to designate one of the sons of Yaakov as a hostage, Yoseif chooses Shimon because of his role as the main proponent arguing in favor of putting him to death, and the one who threw him into the pit. Yoseif signals for and commands his guards to take Shimon from them (his brothers). Not willing to comply with becoming a hostage, Shimon girds himself against the guards determined to take him prisoner. Confronted by seventy guards,  Shimon fends off their attempt to subdue him. Yoseif reacts to the inability of seventy guards to overpower Shimon by dispatching Menasheh to subdue him. Menasheh strikes Shimon once, renders him unconscious  and binds him in chains. Unwilling to believe that which their eyes witnessed, the sons of Yaakov fail to understand how the Viceroy of Egypt's translator (Yoseif's son Menasheh (their nephew)) singlehandedly subdued and bound their brother.  Genesis 42:25 Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with Heir youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Proise to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf. Proise to their departure and su		Ŧ *
Viceroy of Egypt (a/k/a Yoseif (Joseph) does not understand Hebrew. Yoseif is brought to tears from hearing his brothers express their contriteness for having wronged him, and to avoid their seeing him crying, turns away  from them,  and after removing himself from their presence, weeps in the privacy of his antechamber. Yoseif regains his composure  and accompanied by his interpreter, returns  to them (his brothers). Yoseif instructs his translator to engage the sons of Yaakov and resumes speaking  to them. Yoseif commands his brothers to decide which of the ten sons of Yaakov should remain behind as a hostage while the other siblings journey to Canaan and return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf. Yoseif tells his brothers that he will sequester them until they decide upon which son of Yaakov is to remain behind as a hostage. After his brothers fail to designate one of the sons of Yaakov as a hostage, Yoseif chooses Shimon because of his role as the main proponent arguing in favor of putting him to death, and the one who threw him into the pit. Yoseif signals for and commands his guards to take Shimon from them (his brothers). Not willing to comply with becoming a hostage, Shimon girds himself against the guards determined to take him prisoner. Confronted by seventy guards, Shimon fends off their attempt to subdue him. Yoseif reacts to the inability of seventy guards to overpower Shimon by dispatching Menasheh to subdue him. Menasheh strikes Shimon once, renders him unconscious and binds him in chains. Unwilling to believe that which their eyes witnessed, the sons of Yaakov fail to understand how the Viceroy of Egypt's translator (Yoseif's son Menasheh (their nephew)) singlehandedly subdued and bound their brother.  Genesis 42:25 Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf, Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) su		וַיָּסֹב
to tears from hearing his brothers express their contriteness for having wronged him, and to avoid their seeing him crying, turns away from them, and after removing himself from their presence, weeps in the privacy of his antechamber. Yoseif regains his composure and accompanied by his interpreter, returns to them (his brothers). Yoseif instructs his translator to engage the sons of Yaakov and resumes speaking to them. Yoseif commands his brothers to decide which of the ten sons of Yaakov should remain behind as a hostage while the other siblings journey to Canaan and return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf. Yoseif tells his brothers that he will sequester them until they decide upon which son of Yaakov is to remain behind as a hostage. After his brothers fail to designate one of the sons of Yaakov as a hostage, Yoseif chooses Shimon because of his role as the main proponent arguing in favor of putting him to death, and the one who threw him into the pit. Yoseif signals for and commands his guards to take Shimon from them (his brothers). Not willing to comply with becoming a hostage, Shimon girds himself against the guards determined to take him prisoner. Confronted by seventy guards, Shimon fends off their attempt to subdue him. Yoseif reacts to the inability of seventy guards to overpower Shimon by dispatching Menasheh to subdue him. Menasheh strikes Shimon once, renders him unconscious  and binds him in chains. Unwilling to believe that which their eyes witnessed, the sons of Yaakov fail to understand how the Viceroy of Egypt's translator (Yoseif's son Menasheh (their nephew)) singlehandedly subdued and bound their brother.  Genesis 42:25 Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israell) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but Yoseif has an ulterio and to avoid their seeing him crying, turns away from them, and after removing himself from their presence, weeps in the privacy of his antechamber. Yoseif regains his composure and accompanied by his interpreter, returns to them (his brothers). Yoseif instructs his translator to engage the sons of Yaakov and resumes speaking to them. Yoseif commands his brothers to decide which of the ten sons of Yaakov should remain behind as a hostage while the other siblings journey to Canaan and return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf. Yoseif tells his brothers that he will sequester them until they decide upon which son of Yaakov is to remain behind as a hostage. After his brothers fail to designate one of the sons of Yaakov as a hostage, Yoseif chooses Shimon because of his role as the main proponent arguing in favor of putting him to death, and the one who threw him into the pit. Yoseif signals for and commands his guards to take Shimon from them (his brothers). Not willing to comply with becoming a hostage, Shimon girds himself against the guards determined to take him prisoner. Confronted by seventy guards, Shimon fends off their attempt to subdue him. Yoseif reacts to the inability of seventy guards to overpower Shimon by dispatching Menasheh to subdue him. Menasheh strikes Shimon once, renders him unconscious and binds him in chains. Unwilling to believe that which their eyes witnessed, the sons of Yaakov fail to understand how the Viceroy of Egypt's translator (Yoseif's son Menasheh (their nephew)) singlehandedly subdued and bound their brother.  Genesis 42:25 Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but Yoseif has
and after removing himself from their presence, weeps in the privacy of his antechamber. Yoseif regains his composure  and accompanied by his interpreter, returns  to them (his brothers). Yoseif instructs his translator to engage the sons of Yaakov  and resumes speaking  to them. Yoseif commands his brothers to decide which of the ten sons of Yaakov should remain behind as a hostage while the other siblings journey to Canaan and return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf. Yoseif tells his brothers that he will sequester them until they decide upon which son of Yaakov is to remain behind as a hostage. After his brothers fail to designate one of the sons of Yaakov as a hostage, Yoseif chooses Shimon because of his role as the main proponent arguing in favor of putting him to death, and the one who threw him into the pit. Yoseif signals for and commands his guards to take Shimon  from them (his brothers). Not willing to comply  with becoming a hostage, Shimon girds himself against the guards determined to take him prisoner. Confronted by seventy guards,  Shimon fends off their attempt to subdue him. Yoseif reacts to the inability of seventy guards to overpower Shimon by dispatching Menasheh to subdue him. Menasheh strikes Shimon once, renders him unconscious  and binds  to believe that which their eyes witnessed, the sons of Yaakov fail to understand how the Viceroy of Egypt's translator (Yoseif's son Menasheh (their nephew)) singlehandedly subdued and bound their brother.  Genesis 42:25  Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign	and to avoid their seeing him crying, turns away antechamber. Yoseif regains his composure  and accompanied by his interpreter, returns  to them (his brothers). Yoseif instructs his translator to engage the sons of Yaakov and resumes speaking  to them. Yoseif commands his brothers to decide which of the ten sons of Yaakov should remain behind as a hostage while the other siblings journey to Canaan and return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf. Yoseif tells his brothers that he will sequester them until they decide upon which son of Yaakov is to remain behind as a hostage. After his brothers fail to designate one of the sons of Yaakov as a hostage, Yoseif chooses Shimon because of his role as the main proponent arguing in favor of putting him to death, and the one who threw him into the pit. Yoseif signals for and commands his guards to take Shimon from them (his brothers). Not willing to comply with becoming a hostage, Shimon girds himself against the guards determined to take him prisoner. Confronted by seventy guards, Shimon fends off their attempt to subdue him. Yoseif reacts to the inability of seventy guards to overpower Shimon by dispatching Menasheh to subdue him. Menasheh strikes Shimon once, renders him unconscious and binds  Togy:  Thim in chains. Unwilling to believe that which their eyes witnessed, the sons of Yaakov fail to understand how the Viceroy of Egypt's translator (Yoseif's son Menasheh (their nephew)) singlehandedly subdued and bound their brother.  Genesis 42:25 Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) alkla Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but Yoseif has an ulterior motive, and in addition to filling their sacks  With grain, fills  Their sacks with the silver they exchanged f	from them,	מֶצַלֵיהֶם
antechamber. Yoseif regains his composure  and accompanied by his interpreter, returns  to them (his brothers). Yoseif instructs his translator to engage the sons of Yaakov and resumes speaking  to them. Yoseif commands his brothers to decide which of the ten sons of Yaakov should remain behind as a hostage while the other siblings journey to Canaan and return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf. Yoseif tells his brothers that he will sequester them until they decide upon which son of Yaakov is to remain behind as a hostage. After his brothers fail to designate one of the sons of Yaakov as a hostage, Yoseif chooses Shimon because of his role as the main proponent arguing in favor of putting him to death, and the one who threw him into the pit. Yoseif signals for and commands his guards to take Shimon from them (his brothers). Not willing to comply with becoming a hostage, Shimon girds himself against the guards determined to take him prisoner. Confronted by seventy guards, Shimon fends off their attempt to subdue him. Yoseif reacts to the inability of seventy guards to overpower Shimon by dispatching Menasheh to subdue him. Menasheh strikes Shimon once, renders him unconscious and binds  to believe that which their eyes witnessed, the sons of Yaakov fail to understand how the Viceroy of Egypt's translator (Yoseif's son Menasheh (their nephew)) singlehandedly subdued and bound their brother.  Genesis 42:25 Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) alkla Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but Yoseif has an ulterior motive,  and in addition to filling their sacks  with grain, fills  The Theorem Canadian Advisor and the sons of Yaakov's sons are unaware tha	and after removing himself from their presence, weeps in the privacy of his	ַוַיֵּרְך ָּ
to them (his brothers). Yoseif instructs his translator to engage the sons of Yaakov and resumes speaking to them. Yoseif commands his brothers to decide which of the ten sons of Yaakov should remain behind as a hostage while the other siblings journey to Canaan and return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf. Yoseif tells his brothers that he will sequester them until they decide upon which son of Yaakov is to remain behind as a hostage. After his brothers fail to designate one of the sons of Yaakov as a hostage, Yoseif chooses Shimon because of his role as the main proponent arguing in favor of putting him to death, and the one who threw him into the pit. Yoseif signals for and commands his guards to take Shimon from them (his brothers). Not willing to comply with becoming a hostage, Shimon girds himself against the guards determined to take him prisoner. Confronted by seventy guards,  Shimon fends off their attempt to subdue him. Yoseif reacts to the inability of seventy guards to overpower Shimon by dispatching Menasheh to subdue him. Menasheh strikes Shimon once, renders him unconscious and binds him in chains. Unwilling to believe that which their eyes witnessed, the sons of Yaakov fail to understand how the Viceroy of Egypt's translator (Yoseif's son Menasheh (their nephew)) singlehandedly subdued and bound their brother.  Genesis 42:25  Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseif (Joseif) sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but  Yoseif has an ulterior motive, and in addition to filling their sacks with grain, fills  Their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of	antechamber. Yoseif regains his composure מחd resumes speaking  to them. Yoseif commands his brothers to decide which of the ten sons of Yaakov should remain behind as a hostage while the other siblings journey to Canaan and return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf. Yoseif tells his brothers that he will sequester them until they decide upon which son of Yaakov is to remain behind as a hostage. After his brothers fail to designate one of the sons of Yaakov as a hostage, Yoseif chooses Shimon because of his role as the main proponent arguing in favor of putting him to death, and the one who threw him into the pit. Yoseif signals for and commands his guards to take Shimon  from them (his brothers). Not willing to comply  with becoming a hostage, Shimon girds himself against the guards determined to take him prisoner. Confronted by seventy guards,  Shimon fends off their attempt to subdue him. Yoseif reacts to the inability of seventy guards to overpower Shimon by dispatching Menasheh to subdue him. Menasheh strikes Shimon once, renders him unconscious  and binds  him in chains. Unwilling  to believe that which their eyes witnessed, the sons of Yaakov fail to understand how the Viceroy of Egypt's translator (Yoseif's son Menasheh (their nephew)) singlehandedly subdued and bound their brother.  Genesis 42:25  Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but  Yoseif has an ulterior motive,  and in addition to filling their sacks  with grain, fills  their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of	and accompanied by his interpreter, returns	בְּיָּיָיַ
to them. Yoseif commands his brothers to decide which of the ten sons of Yaakov should remain behind as a hostage while the other siblings journey to Canaan and return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf. Yoseif tells his brothers that he will sequester them until they decide upon which son of Yaakov is to remain behind as a hostage. After his brothers fail to designate one of the sons of Yaakov as a hostage, Yoseif chooses Shimon because of his role as the main proponent arguing in favor of putting him to death, and the one who threw him into the pit. Yoseif signals for and commands his guards to take Shimon  from them (his brothers). Not willing to comply  with becoming a hostage, Shimon girds himself against the guards determined to take him prisoner. Confronted by seventy guards,  Shimon fends off their attempt to subdue him. Yoseif reacts to the inability of seventy guards to overpower Shimon by dispatching Menasheh to subdue him. Menasheh strikes Shimon once, renders him unconscious  and binds  to believe that which their eyes witnessed, the sons of Yaakov fail to understand how the Viceroy of Egypt's translator (Yoseif's son Menasheh (their nephew)) singlehandedly subdued and bound their brother.  Genesis 42:25  Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but  Yoseif has an ulterior motive,  and in addition to filling their sacks  with grain, fills  their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of	to them (his brothers). Yoseif instructs his translator to engage the sons of Yaakov	אַלֶּהֶם should remain behind as a hostage while the other siblings journey to Canaan and return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf. Yoseif tells his brothers that he will sequester them until they decide upon which son of Yaakov is to remain behind as a hostage. After his brothers fail to designate one of the sons of Yaakov as a hostage, Yoseif chooses Shimon because of his role as the main proponent arguing in favor of putting him to death, and the one who threw him into the pit. Yoseif signals for and commands his guards to take Shimon  from them (his brothers). Not willing to comply  with becoming a hostage, Shimon girds himself against the guards determined to take him prisoner. Confronted by seventy guards,  Shimon fends off their attempt to subdue him. Yoseif reacts to the inability of seventy guards to overpower Shimon by dispatching Menasheh to subdue him. Menasheh strikes Shimon once, renders him unconscious  and binds  him in chains. Unwilling  to believe that which their eyes witnessed, the sons of Yaakov fail to understand how the Viceroy of Egypt's translator (Yoseif's son Menasheh (their nephew)) singlehandedly subdued and bound their brother.  Genesis 42:25  Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but  Yoseif has an ulterior motive,  and in addition to filling their sacks  with grain, fills  Their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of	and resumes speaking	וַיְדַבֵּר return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf. Yoseif tells his brothers that he will sequester them until they decide upon which son of Yaakov is to remain behind as a hostage. After his brothers fail to designate one of the sons of Yaakov as a hostage, Yoseif chooses Shimon because of his role as the main proponent arguing in favor of putting him to death, and the one who threw him into the pit. Yoseif signals for and commands his guards to take Shimon  from them (his brothers). Not willing to comply  with becoming a hostage, Shimon girds himself against the guards determined to take him prisoner. Confronted by seventy guards,  Shimon fends off their attempt to subdue him. Yoseif reacts to the inability of seventy guards to overpower Shimon by dispatching Menasheh to subdue him. Menasheh strikes Shimon once, renders him unconscious  and binds  him in chains. Unwilling  to believe that which their eyes witnessed, the sons of Yaakov fail to understand how the Viceroy of Egypt's translator (Yoseif's son Menasheh (their nephew)) singlehandedly subdued and bound their brother.  Genesis 42:25  Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but  Yoseif has an ulterior motive,  and in addition to filling their sacks with grain, fills  their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of	to them. Yoseif commands his brothers to decide which of the ten sons of Yaakov	אַלֶּהֶם will sequester them until they decide upon which son of Yaakov is to remain behind as a hostage. After his brothers fail to designate one of the sons of Yaakov as a hostage, Yoseif chooses Shimon because of his role as the main proponent arguing in favor of putting him to death, and the one who threw him into the pit. Yoseif signals for and commands his guards to take Shimon  from them (his brothers). Not willing to comply  with becoming a hostage, Shimon girds himself against the guards determined to take him prisoner. Confronted by seventy guards,  Shimon fends off their attempt to subdue him. Yoseif reacts to the inability of seventy guards to overpower Shimon by dispatching Menasheh to subdue him. Menasheh strikes Shimon once, renders him unconscious  and binds  him in chains. Unwilling  to believe that which their eyes witnessed, the sons of Yaakov fail to understand how the Viceroy of Egypt's translator (Yoseif's son Menasheh (their nephew)) singlehandedly subdued and bound their brother.  Genesis 42:25  Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but  Yoseif has an ulterior motive,  and in addition to filling their sacks with grain, fills  their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of	should remain behind as a hostage while the other siblings journey to Canaan and hostage. After his brothers fail to designate one of the sons of Yaakov as a hostage, Yoseif chooses Shimon because of his role as the main proponent arguing in favor of putting him to death, and the one who threw him into the pit. Yoseif signals for and commands his guards to take Shimon  from them (his brothers). Not willing to comply  with becoming a hostage, Shimon girds himself against the guards determined to take him prisoner. Confronted by seventy guards,  Shimon fends off their attempt to subdue him. Yoseif reacts to the inability of seventy guards to overpower Shimon by dispatching Menasheh to subdue him. Menasheh strikes Shimon once, renders him unconscious  and binds  him in chains. Unwilling  to believe that which their eyes witnessed, the sons of Yaakov fail to understand how the Viceroy of Egypt's translator (Yoseif's son Menasheh (their nephew)) singlehandedly subdued and bound their brother.  Genesis 42:25  Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but  Yoseif has an ulterior motive,  and in addition to filling their sacks  with grain, fills  their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of	return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf. Yoseif tells his brothers that he Yoseif chooses Shimon because of his role as the main proponent arguing in favor of putting him to death, and the one who threw him into the pit. Yoseif signals for and commands his guards to take Shimon from them (his brothers). Not willing to comply with becoming a hostage, Shimon girds himself against the guards determined to take him prisoner. Confronted by seventy guards,  Shimon fends off their attempt to subdue him. Yoseif reacts to the inability of seventy guards to overpower Shimon by dispatching Menasheh to subdue him. Menasheh strikes Shimon once, renders him unconscious and binds  him in chains. Unwilling to believe that which their eyes witnessed, the sons of Yaakov fail to understand how the Viceroy of Egypt's translator (Yoseif's son Menasheh (their nephew)) singlehandedly subdued and bound their brother.  Genesis 42:25  Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but  Yoseif has an ulterior motive,  and in addition to filling their sacks  with grain, fills  Their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of	will sequester them until they decide upon which son of Yaakov is to remain behind as a putting him to death, and the one who threw him into the pit. Yoseif signals for  and commands his guards to take Shimon  from them (his brothers). Not willing to comply  with becoming a hostage, Shimon girds himself against the guards determined to take him prisoner. Confronted by seventy guards,  Shimon fends off their attempt to subdue him. Yoseif reacts to the inability of seventy guards to overpower Shimon by dispatching Menasheh to subdue him. Menasheh strikes Shimon once, renders him unconscious  and binds  him in chains. Unwilling  to believe that which their eyes witnessed, the sons of Yaakov fail to understand how the Viceroy of Egypt's translator (Yoseif's son Menasheh (their nephew)) singlehandedly subdued and bound their brother.  Genesis 42:25  Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but  Yoseif has an ulterior motive,  and in addition to filling their sacks  with grain, fills  their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of מול commands his guards to take Shimon  from them (his brothers). Not willing to comply  with becoming a hostage, Shimon girds himself against the guards determined to take him prisoner. Confronted by seventy guards,  Shimon fends off their attempt to subdue him. Yoseif reacts to the inability of seventy guards to overpower Shimon by dispatching Menasheh to subdue him. Menasheh strikes Shimon once, renders him unconscious  and binds  him in chains. Unwilling  to believe that which their eyes witnessed, the sons of Yaakov fail to understand how the Viceroy of Egypt's translator (Yoseif's son Menasheh (their nephew)) singlehandedly subdued and bound their brother.  Genesis 42:25  Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but  Yoseif has an ulterior motive,  and in addition to filling their sacks  with grain, fills  their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of	Yoseif chooses Shimon because of his role as the main proponent arguing in favor of איני ליה them (his brothers). Not willing to comply  with becoming a hostage, Shimon girds himself against the guards determined to take him prisoner. Confronted by seventy guards,  Shimon fends off their attempt to subdue him. Yoseif reacts to the inability of seventy guards to overpower Shimon by dispatching Menasheh to subdue him. Menasheh strikes Shimon once, renders him unconscious  and binds  him in chains. Unwilling  to believe that which their eyes witnessed, the sons of Yaakov fail to understand how the Viceroy of Egypt's translator (Yoseif's son Menasheh (their nephew)) singlehandedly subdued and bound their brother.  Genesis 42:25  Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but  Yoseif has an ulterior motive,  and in addition to filling their sacks  with grain, fills  their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of with becoming a hostage, Shimon girds himself against the guards determined to take him prisoner. Confronted by seventy guards,  Shimon fends off their attempt to subdue him. Yoseif reacts to the inability of seventy guards to overpower Shimon by dispatching Menasheh to subdue him. Menasheh strikes Shimon once, renders him unconscious  and binds  him in chains. Unwilling  to believe that which their eyes witnessed, the sons of Yaakov fail to understand how the Viceroy of Egypt's translator (Yoseif's son Menasheh (their nephew)) singlehandedly subdued and bound their brother.  Genesis 42:25  Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but  Yoseif has an ulterior motive,  and in addition to filling their sacks  with grain, fills  Their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of	and commands his guards to take Shimon	וַיִּקַּח him prisoner. Confronted by seventy guards,  Shimon fends off their attempt to subdue him. Yoseif reacts to the inability of seventy guards to overpower Shimon by dispatching Menasheh to subdue him. Menasheh strikes Shimon once, renders him unconscious  and binds  him in chains. Unwilling  to believe that which their eyes witnessed, the sons of Yaakov fail to understand how the Viceroy of Egypt's translator (Yoseif's son Menasheh (their nephew)) singlehandedly subdued and bound their brother.  Genesis 42:25  Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but  Yoseif has an ulterior motive,  and in addition to filling their sacks  with grain, fills  their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of	from them (his brothers). Not willing to comply	מֵאָתָם Shimon fends off their attempt to subdue him. Yoseif reacts to the inability of seventy guards to overpower Shimon by dispatching Menasheh to subdue him. Menasheh strikes Shimon once, renders him unconscious  and binds  him in chains. Unwilling  to believe that which their eyes witnessed, the sons of Yaakov fail to understand how the Viceroy of Egypt's translator (Yoseif's son Menasheh (their nephew)) singlehandedly subdued and bound their brother.  Genesis 42:25  Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but  Yoseif has an ulterior motive,  and in addition to filling their sacks  with grain, fills  their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of	with becoming a hostage, Shimon girds himself against the guards determined to take	אֶת guards to overpower Shimon by dispatching Menasheh to subdue him. Menasheh strikes Shimon once, renders him unconscious  and binds  him in chains. Unwilling  to believe that which their eyes witnessed, the sons of Yaakov fail to understand how the Viceroy of Egypt's translator (Yoseif's son Menasheh (their nephew)) singlehandedly subdued and bound their brother.  Genesis 42:25  Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but  Yoseif has an ulterior motive,  and in addition to filling their sacks  with grain, fills  their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of	him prisoner. Confronted by seventy guards, strikes Shimon once, renders him unconscious  and binds  him in chains. Unwilling  to believe that which their eyes witnessed, the sons of Yaakov fail to understand how the Viceroy of Egypt's translator (Yoseif's son Menasheh (their nephew)) singlehandedly subdued and bound their brother.  Genesis 42:25  Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but  Yoseif has an ulterior motive,  and in addition to filling their sacks  with grain, fills  their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of		שָׁמְעוֹן
אות in chains. Unwilling  to believe that which their eyes witnessed, the sons of Yaakov fail to understand how the Viceroy of Egypt's translator (Yoseif's son Menasheh (their nephew)) singlehandedly subdued and bound their brother.  Genesis 42:25  Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but  Yoseif has an ulterior motive, and in addition to filling their sacks with grain, fills their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of	guards to overpower Shimon by dispatching Menasheh to subdue him. Menasheh אוֹ in chains. Unwilling  to believe that which their eyes witnessed, the sons of Yaakov fail to understand how the Viceroy of Egypt's translator (Yoseif's son Menasheh (their nephew)) singlehandedly subdued and bound their brother.  Genesis 42:25  Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but  Yoseif has an ulterior motive,  and in addition to filling their sacks  with grain, fills  their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of to believe that which their eyes witnessed, the sons of Yaakov fail to understand how the Viceroy of Egypt's translator (Yoseif's son Menasheh (their nephew)) singlehandedly subdued and bound their brother.  Genesis 42:25  Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but  Yoseif has an ulterior motive, and in addition to filling their sacks with grain, fills  their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of		וַיֶּאֱסֹר the Viceroy of Egypt's translator (Yoseif's son Menasheh (their nephew)) singlehandedly subdued and bound their brother.  Genesis 42:25  Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but  Yoseif has an ulterior motive,  and in addition to filling their sacks  with grain, fills  their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of	 	אֹתוֹ singlehandedly subdued and bound their brother.  Genesis 42:25  Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but  Yoseif has an ulterior motive, and in addition to filling their sacks with grain, fills  their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of		לְעֵינֵיהֶם
Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but  Yoseif has an ulterior motive, and in addition to filling their sacks with grain, fills their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of	· · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · · ·
Shimon is held hostage until the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) return to Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but  Yoseif has an ulterior motive,  and in addition to filling their sacks  with grain, fills  their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of Egypt with their youngest brother to testify on their behalf. Prior to their departure and subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but  Yoseif has an ulterior motive,  and in addition to filling their sacks  with grain, fills  their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of	· · · subsequent return to Egypt with Binyomin to testify on their behalf, Yoseif (Joseph) summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but  Yoseif has an ulterior motive, and in addition to filling their sacks with grain, fills their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of		וַיְצַו
summons and commands his servants to fill each of their (his brothers') sacks with grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but  Yoseif has an ulterior motive, and in addition to filling their sacks with grain, fills their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of	• • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • • grain. On its face, providing grain to the sons of Yaakov seems a benign gesture, but  Yoseif has an ulterior motive,  and in addition to filling their sacks  with grain, fills  their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of Yoseif has an ulterior motive, מחל and in addition to filling their sacks  with grain, fills  their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of מחd in addition to filling their sacks  with grain, fills  their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of with grain, fills their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of		יוֹסֵףְ.
their sacks with the silver they exchanged for grain. Yaakov's sons are unaware that silver has been interspersed with the sacks of		וַיְמַלְאוּ
silver has been interspersed with the sacks of		אָת
	, , ,	כְּלֵיהֶם
		בָּר

brothers,
and instructs his servants to put	וּלְהָשִׁיב
their silver inside the bags of grain to implicate each	ַרְּיָּטִּיּ – כַּסְפֵּיהֶם man as a thief. Yoseif plans to intercept his brothers while journeying back to Canaan,	ַבַּיָּב ַ הֶּב אָישׁ
search their sacks, and	- 4, to 'discover' the stolen silver planted in	אָל
his respective sack. Yoseif instills a false sense of security by telling his brothers he	ײַ שַׂקּוֹ bears no ill will,
and after setting their minds at ease, commits to giving	וְלָתֵת
to them enough	י לָהֶם
provisions to feed their respective families and enough provisions	צַדָה to sustain them throughout their journey to Canaan and their return journey to Egypt.	ַלַדְּרֶךְ לַדְּרֶךְ Yoseif's brothers fail to grasp the underlying reason for his kindness toward them, and could not have known that all he did	ַניַע ש
for them is	לָהֶם
in accordance with prophetic knowledge imparted to him by God.	כַּן
Genesis 42:26
Relieved to have been set free to return to Canaan, Yoseif's (Joseph) nine brothers are	וַיִּשְׂאוּ presented with sacks of life-sustaining grain for their respective households, and load the sacks of grain onto the backs of their donkeys (including Shimon's donkey). Yoseif's nine brothers did not know that interspersed
with	אָת
their grain is silver they tendered to Yoseif in exchange for grain. The sacks of grain	שָׁבְרָם loaded
onto	עַל
their donkeys contain silver that, when 'discovered' by Yoseif's servants, will implicate	קמֹרֵיהֶם the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) as thieves. Yoseif's brothers finish securing the sacks of grain to the donkeys and depart	ויֵלְ כוּ
from there.	מָשָׁם
Genesis 42:27
Wearied from journeying, Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers take up residence at an inn and	וַיִּפְתַּח intend to resume their journey at daybreak. Before retiring for the night, Yoseif's brothers take to feeding hay to their donkeys. Because one of Leivi's donkeys is not in the best of health, he decides to feed it some of the grain Yoseif had given to him and his brothers, at no charge, for the specific purpose of feeding their donkeys while journeying between Egypt and Canaan. Leivi unties one of his sacks of grain, and after opening
the one sack of grain intermingled	הָאֶחָד
with silver, reaches into	אָת
his sack to extract some grain	שַׂקוֹ
to give to his donkey and discovers silver intermingled in the sack containing the	לָתֵת ייבבייי
feed	מָסְפּוֹא
to nourish his donkey. While staying	לַחֲמֹרוֹ
in the inn, Leivi goes about feeding his donkey, extracts some grain from the sack,	ַבַּמָּלוֹן
and becomes horrified when he sees grain intermingled	וַיַּרָא

with	אָת
his silver heretofore tendered to Yoseif in exchange for grain. Leivi immediately	בַּסְפּוֹ understands the gravity of the situation, and as soon as he beholds	וְהִנֵּה
it (the silver tendered to Yoseif in exchange for grain)	הוא
in the mouth of	בְפִי
his sack, fears the Viceroy of Egypt, upon discovering this act of thievery, will exact	אַמְתַּחְתּוֹ retribution upon him and his brothers.
Genesis 42:28
Leivi intends to apprise his brothers of his horrific discovery of finding the silver	וַיֹּאמֶר tendered to the Viceroy of Egypt in exchange for grain secreted in his sack of grain, and says
to	אָל
his brothers, "I opened one of my sacks and found silver intermingled with the grain. I	אָחָיו cannot explain
my reacquisition of the silver tendered to the Viceroy of Egypt in exchange for grain.	הוּשַׁב
The last thing I expected to find in my possession is my silver tendered to the Viceroy of Egypt in exchange for grain. I reached into my sack	כַּסְפִּי to extricate a portion of grain to feed my donkey, and in addition to finding grain, find silver intermingled with the grain. I fear that the	וְגַם Viceroy of Egypt will perceive us as thieves and withdraw his offer to have Binyomin testify on our behalf. When I beheld silver intermingled	הְנֵּה
in my sack of grain, I thought the Viceroy of Egypt either framed us as thieves or had	בְאַמְתַּחְתִּי given us silver in exchange for Shimon, his hostage-turned-slave!" Optimism accompanied the sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) as they journeyed toward Canaan
and departed upon discovering silver secreted in Leivi's sack of grain. The steadiness of	וַיֵּצֵא
the beating of	,
their collective heart is supplanted by palpitations and faintness brought on by what	לָבָּם manner of punishment might be meted out by the Viceroy of Egypt (Yoseif) (Joseph)) upon discovering Pharaoh's silver in their possession. The discovery of Pharaoh's silver in their midst compels the sons of Yaakov to contemplate the manner of Egyptian punishment commensurate with thievery and that notion engenders fear-based trembling. Each	ַנַיֶּטֶרְדוּ יייייי man calling himself a son of Yaakov turns	אָישׁ
to one of	אָל
his brothers, and	אָחִיו לטמכ
Says,	לֵאמֹר מד
"What trickery is this? Could it be that	מַה ז'יים זאת
He (God) (a/k/a Elokim) (Judge of the Universe)) made the silver appear inside the sack	עָשָׂה of grain? Why would  Elokim do this	ما ماسائد ده
to us?"	אֱלהִים ליני
נט טג:	לָנוּ

(_ ^ r	ACIC	/ 2:20
uei	iesis	42.24
		T- J

Genesis 42:29
Upon arriving in Canaan, Yoseif's (Joseph) brothers remember to appear before and	וַיָּבֹאוּ give their father a detailed account of their journey, and come to find themselves in the presence of	אָל
Yααkov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)),	יַעֲקֹב their father. Joyful upon seeing his sons returning	אֲבִיהֶם
to the land of	אַרְצָה
Canaan, Yaakov asks them to enunciate their experiences while situated in Egypt,	כְּנָעַן and to oblige their father, they are about to tell	וַיַּגִּידוּ him an abridged rather than full version. Knowing their father will never allow them to	לוֹ bring Binyomin back to Egypt to testify on their behalf, the sons of Yaakov decide to report their experience in Egypt in a manner calculated to obfuscate the direness of their situation. Unsuspecting that his sons intend to withhold information with regard to	אָת
all	בָּל
thαt had hαppened	הַקּרֹת
to them while they were in Egypt, Yaakov hears them	אֹתָם
saying,	לֵאמֹר
Genesis 42:30
"Soon after arriving in Egypt, we were arrested and situated before the Viceroy of	ن نۇڭل
Egypt, and he spoke harshly to us.	•
The man known as the Viceroy of Egypt, in addition to overseeing the acquisition,	הָאִישׁ storage and sale of all Egyptian grain, is lord of	• lords in	אֲדֹנֵי
the land of Egypt. This Viceroy of Egypt spoke	ָ הָאָרֶץ
to us	אָתַנוּ
harshly	· · קשׁוֹת
and gave	יָּרָ רַיִּתֵּן
us cause to fear for our lives after accusing us of comporting ourselves	אתנו
as spies intent upon ascertaining Egypt's weaknesses and joining forces	. כִּמְרַגְּלִים with Egypt's enemies intent upon attacking, conquering and laying claim to	אַת
the land of Egypt,	ָ הָאָרֶץ
Genesis 42:31	1 44.4
and in response to the Viceroy of Egypt's accusations, we said	וַנֹאמֶר
to him,	ַ יַבּיי אֵלָיו
`Truthful men are	ַבָּנִים כֵּנִים
we. You may believe our reason for coming to Egypt was to ascertain your country's	אַנָחְנוּ weaknesses, but we steadfastly maintain our assertion of innocence and say unto you	/=/ <sub>1</sub> /==1
that it is not true that	לא
we are, as you claim,	ָּהָיִינוּ קיִינוּ
ones spying on Egypt.	ייָ. בּי מְרַגְּלִים
Genesis 42:32	- : - : - : - : - : - : - : - : - : - :
We sons of Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)), numbering two and	שְׁנֵים ten, implore the Viceroy of Egypt to take note of the existence of two brothers not	ַ יְיבָ י בּ present at these proceedings.	بد کی present at these proceedings.

We ten	אַנַחְנוּ
brothers, known as the	אַחִים
sons of Yaakov, want to tell you about the other sons fathered by	רָנֵי our father. The older of the two brothers not present in this court is	אָבִינוּ the one son fathered by Yaakov named Yoseif (Joseph). It has been many years since	ָהָאֶחָד הָאֶחָד we last saw one another. We have no knowledge of Yoseif's whereabouts. Upon entering Egypt, we attempted to find Yoseif, but everywhere we looked, he is not there. Binyomin is the other brother whom my lord has yet to behold,	אֵינֶנּוּ and he is the youngest of our brothers. On	וָהַקָּטֹוְ
the day we stand before you, Binyomin is	הַיּוֹם
with	אֶת
our father who resides	אָבִינוּ
in the land of	ָּאֶרֶץ בְּאֶרֶץ
Canaan.'	ַבְנָעַן בְּנָעַן
Genesis 42:33	• • •
Upon hearing our defense, we await the Viceroy of Egypt's reply, and after taking time	וַיּׂאמֶר contemplating what to say	·
to us,	אֵלֵינוּ
the man lording over all the	ָדָאִיש ׁ
lords in	אַד ׂנ י
the land of Egypt said, 'I believe your youngest brother's pending testimony on your	הָאָרֶץ behalf is the means by which I may determine your guilt or innocence. To ensure your brother's appearance, I will hold one of you hostage.
In this matter of determining your guilt or innocence, one hostage will ensure your	בְּזֹאת youngest brother's appearance, and I will know from his testimony, whether or not you are spies. This I do	אַדַע
because I need to know if	כָּי
truthful men are	כֵנִים
you. Return to Canaan, retrieve and situate	אַתָּם
your brother before me.	אַחִיכֶם
The one residing with his father in Canaan is to appear before me and testify on your	הָאֶחָד behalf. I will kill the brother held hostage if you fail to bring your youngest brother to testify on your behalf. I command you to return to Canaan, escort your youngest brother back to Egypt, and leave him	הַנִּיחוּ
with me. I will compel him to testify as regards to whether or not his brothers came to	אָתִּי Egypt to achieve benign or malevolent objectives. As for the matter of purchasing grain for your respective families, it is my wish that you do not starve to death prior to standing trial,
and with regard to the matter of assuaging your hunger and the	וְאֶת
hunger of the members of	רַעֲבוֹן
your respective households,	בָּתֵיכֶם
take as much grain as you can carry	קְחוּ
and go back to Canaan. Collect	וָלֵכוּ
Genesis 42:34
and bring your youngest brother	וְהָבִיאוּ

with you on your return journey to Egypt. Bring	אֶת
your brother Binyomin, known as	אַַחִיכֶם
'the small one'	הַקָּמֹן
to me. I will compel him to testify on your behalf,	א ַל י and from his testimony, I will know if spying was your objective,	ןאַדְעָה
as I believe, or	ַבָּי כֵּי
not. I will drop the charges and set you free if I determine that you are not the	לא ones intent upon spying on Egypt, but	מְרַגְּלִים
you are,	אַתַם
as you claim,	פֿי
truthful men.	· כַנִים
You must leave Egypt, journey to Canaan, and return to Egypt	אַתַּם
with	אָת אָת
your youngest brother whom I will compel to testify on your behalf. If his testimony	אָחִיכֶם אַחִיכֶם
exonerates his siblings,	* •
I will give Shimon back	אֶתֵּן
to you,	 לֶכֶם
and remove any obstacle with regard to reentering	וָאָת
the land of Egypt to acquire food for your respective households. Upon your return, you	הָאָרֶץ will be welcomed into Egypt and you can continue trading your worldly goods for food."	ּאַסְחָרוּ
Genesis 42:35	. ,
After recounting to their father what befell them in Egypt, the sons of Yaakov (Jacob)	וַיְהִי a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) are poised to reveal the most disconcerting part of their story that occurred while journeying from Egypt to Canaan. The sons of Yaakov show their father the silver he gave them to exchange for grain, and it is Yaakov's opinion that either they took part in the illicit reacquisition of the silver or the Egyptians secreted it into their sacks of grain.
They (the sons of Yaakov)	הַם
empty	מְרִיקִים
their sacks of grain,	שַׂקִיהֶם
and Yaakov beholds silver interspersed in their sacks of grain. Yaakov is disconcerted	וְהִנֵּה that each
man (his sons) cannot explain how they reacquired the silver exchanged for grain found	אָישׁ in their respective sacks of grain. Yaakov fears that their inexplicable reacquisition of	אָרוֹר his silver bodes ill for them. Yaakov cannot envision a good outcome following the	כַּסְפּוֹ Egyptian discovery of their missing silver in his sons' respective sack. Yaakov's sons tell their father that they discovered the	בְּשַׂקוֹ silver after stopping off at an inn and that Leivi, reaching into the sack of grain to feed to his donkey, discovered the silver he exchanged for the grain. Leivi conferred with his brothers,
and when they saw his sack of grain laden	וַיִּרְאוּ
with silver, checked their respective sacks, and upon finding silver interspersed with the	אֶת grain, could offer no explanation as to why their sacks contained	צְרֹרוֹת

They had no explanation as to why they were in possession of the silver given to the Viceroy of Egypt in exchange for the grain. The sons of Yaakov and their father realize that possessing the silver they exchanged for grain imperils Shimon's life,  and are afraid that the Viceroy of Egypt, upon discovering the sons of Yaakov stole Pharaoh's silver might execute their brother held hostage to ensure they return with Binyomin to testify on their behalf.  Genesis 4:36  Rather than being sympathetic toward his sons' plight, Yaakov (Jacob) alk/a Yisrael (Israel)) judges them harshly for becoming adversaries to the Viceroy of Egypt who accused them of spying, held Shimon hostage and demanded Binyomin testify on their behalf. Based upon the manner in which they comported themselves in Egypt, Yaakov realizes that his sons are capable of deception, robbery and treachery and forms an opinion that his sons may have either killed or sold Shimon into slavery. Father is determined to speak to his sons, and after contemplating what to say  to them.  Yaakov,  The treacherous and foolhardy manner in which you comported yourselves in Egypt may result in Shimon's death. It has been ordained from on high that God will not fulfill the destiny of His covenant-observant people if any of my sons predecease me. Your actions may have condemned  me to suffer, not only in this life, but also in the afterlife. Failing to protect Yoseif (Joseph) from wild beasts is the manner by which  you bereaved his father. Your failure to look after  Yoseif is the reason why he  s not here with me.  and your foolhardy interaction with the Egyptians is the reason why Shimon  s not here with me.  Now you ask for my permission to allow Binyomin to be taken to Egypt to testify on your behalf,  and with two of my sons gone, how dare you ask me to give you leave to take Binyomin to Egypt and put his life in jeopardy?  Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves,  you would take him away from me and Niceroy of Egypt in exchange for the grain. The sons of Yaakov and their father realize that possessing the silver they exchanged for grain imperils Shimon's life, and are afraid that the Viceroy of Egypt, upon discovering the sons of Yaakov stole Pharaoh's silver might execute their brother held hostage to ensure they return with Binyomin to testify on their behalf.  Genesis 42:36 Rather than being sympathetic toward his sons' plight, Yaakov (Jacob) alk/a Yisrael (Israel)) judges them harshly for becoming adversaries to the Viceroy of Egypt who accused them of spying, held Shimon hostage and demanded Binyomin testify on their behalf. Based upon the manner in which they comported themselves in Egypt, Yaakov realizes that his sons are capable of deception, robbery and treacher and forms an opinion that his sons may have either killed or sold Shimon into slavery. Father is determined to speak to his sons, and after contemplating what to say to them.  Yaakov, their father says, "The treacherous and foolhardy manner in which you comported to them.  Yaakov yourselves in Egypt may result in Shimon's death. It has been ordained from on high that God will not fulfill the destiny of His covenant-observant people if any of my sons predecease me. Your actions may have condemned me to suffer, not only in this life, but also in the afterlife. Failing to protect Yoseif (Joseph) from wild beasts is the manner by which you bereaved his father. Your failure to look after yousefi is the reason why he 10772  Sont here with me. Now you ask for my permission to allow Binyomin to be taken to Egypt to testify on your behalf, and with two of my sons gone, how dare you ask me to give you leave to take Binyomin to Egypt and put his life in jeopardy?  Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves, you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily  you me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and they ar	their silver exchanged for grain from Pharaoh's grain silos	כַּסְפֵּיהֶם
Niceroy of Egypt in exchange for the grain. The sons of Yaakov and their father realize that possessing the silver they exchanged for grain imperils Shimon's life, and are afraid that the Viceroy of Egypt, upon discovering the sons of Yaakov stole Pharaoh's silver might execute their brother held hostage to ensure they return with Binyomin to testify on their behalf.  Genesis 42:36 Rather than being sympathetic toward his sons' plight, Yaakov (Jacob) alk/a Yisrael (Israel)) judges them harshly for becoming adversaries to the Viceroy of Egypt who accused them of spying, held Shimon hostage and demanded Binyomin testify on their behalf. Based upon the manner in which they comported themselves in Egypt, Yaakov realizes that his sons are capable of deception, robbery and treacher and forms an opinion that his sons may have either killed or sold Shimon into slavery. Father is determined to speak to his sons, and after contemplating what to say to them.  Yaakov, their father says, "The treacherous and foolhardy manner in which you comported to them.  Yaakov yourselves in Egypt may result in Shimon's death. It has been ordained from on high that God will not fulfill the destiny of His covenant-observant people if any of my sons predecease me. Your actions may have condemned me to suffer, not only in this life, but also in the afterlife. Failing to protect Yoseif (Joseph) from wild beasts is the manner by which you bereaved his father. Your failure to look after yousefi is the reason why he 10772  Sont here with me. Now you ask for my permission to allow Binyomin to be taken to Egypt to testify on your behalf, and with two of my sons gone, how dare you ask me to give you leave to take Binyomin to Egypt and put his life in jeopardy?  Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves, you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily  you me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and they ar	They had no explanation as to why they were in possession of the silver given to the	הַפָּה
ממ their father realize that possessing the silver they exchanged for grain imperils Shimon's life, and are afraid that the Viceroy of Egypt, upon discovering the sons of Yaakov stole Pharaoh's silver might execute their brother held hostage to ensure they return with Binyomin to testify on their behalf.  Genesis 42:96  Rather than being sympathetic toward his sons' plight, Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) judges them harshly for becoming adversaries to the Viceroy of Egypt who accused them of spying, held Shimon hostage and demanded Binyomin testify on their behalf. Based upon the manner in which they comported themselves in Egypt, Yaakov realizes that his sons are capable of deception, robbery and treachery and forms an opinion that his soon sany have either killed or sold Shimon into slavery. Father is determined to speak to his sons, and after contemplating what to say to them.  2072  Take father  Take father*  Take father Shimon's life,  and are afraid that the Viceroy of Egypt, upon discovering the sons of Yaakov stole Pharaoh's silver might execute their brother held hostage to ensure they return with Binyomin to testify on their behalf.  Genesis 42:36  Rather than being sympathetic toward his sons' plight, Yaakov (Jacob) alk/la Yisrael (Israel)) judges them harshly for becoming adversaries to the Viceroy of Egypt who accused them of spying, held Shimon hostage and demanded Binyomin testify on their behalf. Based upon the manner in which they comported themselves in Egypt, Yaakov realizes that his sons are capable of deception, robbery and treachery and forms an opinion that his sons may have either killed or sold Shimon into slavery. Father is determined to speak to his sons, and after contemplating what to say to them.  Yaakov,  table father says, "The treacherous and foolhardy manner in which you comported yourselves in Egypt may result in Shimon's death. It has been ordained from on high that God will not fulfill the destiny of His covenant-observant people if any of my sons predecease me. Your actions may have condemned me to suffer, not only in this life, but also in the afterlife. Failing to protect Yoseif (Joseph) from wild beasts is the manner by which you bereaved his father. Your failure to look after yoseif is the reason why he sis not here with me. Now you ask for my permission to allow Binyomin to be taken to Egypt to testify on your behalf, and with two of my sons gone, how dare you ask me to give you leave to take Binyomin to Egypt and put his life in jeopardy?  Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves,  you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily you me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get all of them killed."  Genesis 42:37  Yaakov (Jacob) alk/a Yisrael (Isr		וַאֲבִיהֶם
and are afraid that the Viceroy of Egypt, upon discovering the sons of Yaakov stole Pharaoh's silver might execute their brother held hostage to ensure they return with Binyomin to testify on their behalf.  Genesis 42:36  Rather than being sympathetic toward his sons' plight, Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) judges them harshly for becoming adversaries to the Viceroy of Egypt who accused them of spying, held Shimon hostage and demanded Binyomin testify on their behalf. Based upon the manner in which they comported themselves in Egypt, Yaakov realizes that his sons are capable of deception, robbery and treachery and forms an opinion that his sons may have either killed or sold Shimon into slavery. Father is determined to speak to his sons, and after contemplating what to say to them.  2078  Vaakov,  their father says, "The treacherous and foolhardy manner in which you comported yourselves in Egypt may result in Shimon's death. It has been ordained from on high that God will not fulfill the destiny of His covenant-observant people if any of my sons predecease me. Your actions may have condemned  me to suffer, not only in this life, but also in the afterlife. Failing to protect Yoseif (Joseph) from wild beasts is the manner by which  you bereaved his father. Your failure to look after  Yoseif is the reason why he  1079	, , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , Pharaoh's silver might execute their brother held hostage to ensure they return with Binyomin to testify on their behalf.  Genesis 4,2:36  Rather than being sympathetic toward his sons' plight, Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) judges them harshly for becoming adversaries to the Viceroy of Egypt who accused them of spying, held Shimon hostage and demanded Binyomin testify on their behalf. Based upon the manner in which they comported themselves in Egypt, Yaakov realizes that his sons are capable of deception, robbery and treachery and forms an opinion that his sons may have either killed or sold Shimon into slavery. Father is determined to speak to his sons, and after contemplating what to say  to them.  Yaakov,  The treacherous and foolhardy manner in which you comported yourselves in Egypt may result in Shimon's death. It has been ordained from on high that God will not fulfill the destiny of His covenant-observant people if any of my sons predecease me. Your actions may have condemned  me to suffer, not only in this life, but also in the afterlife. Failing to protect Yoseif (Joseph) from wild beasts is the manner by which  you bereaved his father. Your failure to look after  Yoseif is the reason why he  is not here with me.  and your foolbardy interaction with the Egyptians is the reason why Shimon  is not here with me. Now you ask for my permission to allow Binyomin to be taken to Egypt to testify on your behalf,  and with two of my sons gone, how dare you ask me to give you leave to take Binyomin to Egypt and put his life in jeopardy?  Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves,  you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily  upon me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and  they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get  all of them killed."  Genesis 42:37  Yaakov (Jacob) alk/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes	'	וַיִּירָאוּ
Binyomin to testify on their behalf.  Genesis 42:36 Rather than being sympathetic toward his sons' plight, Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) judges them harshly for becoming adversaries to the Viceroy of Egypt who accused them of spying, held Shimon hostage and demanded Binyomin testify on their behalf. Based upon the manner in which they comported themselves in Egypt, Yaakov realizes that his sons are capable of deception, robbery and treachery and forms an opinion that his sons may have either killed or sold Shimon into slavery. Father is determined to speak to his sons, and after contemplating what to say to them.  Yaakov, their father says, "The treacherous and foolhardy manner in which you comported yourselves in Egypt may result in Shimon's death. It has been ordained from on high that God will not fulfill the destiny of His covenant-observant people if any of my sons predecease me. Your actions may have condemned me to suffer, not only in this life, but also in the afterlife. Failing to protect Yoseif (Joseph) from wild beasts is the manner by which you bereaved his father. Your failure to look after  Yoseif is the reason why he size of the reason why Shimon size not here with me, and your foolhardy interaction with the Egyptians is the reason why Shimon size not here with me. Now you ask for my permission to allow Binyomin to be taken to Egypt to testify on your behalf, and with two of my sons gone, how dare you ask me to give you leave to take Binyomin to Egypt and put his life in jeopardy?  Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves,  you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily youn me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get all of them killed."  Genesis 42:37  Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the	, , , ,	Ŧ ·-
Rather than being sympathetic toward his sons' plight, Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) judges them harshly for becoming adversaries to the Viceroy of Egypt who accused them of spying, held Shimon hostage and demanded Binyomin testify on their behalf. Based upon the manner in which they comported themselves in Egypt, Yaakov realizes that his sons are capable of deception, robbery and treachery and forms an opinion that his sons may have either killed or sold Shimon into slavery. Father is determined to speak to his sons, and after contemplating what to say to them.  Yaakov,  The treacherous and foolhardy manner in which you comported yourselves in Egypt may result in Shimon's death. It has been ordained from on high that God will not fulfill the destiny of His covenant-observant people if any of my sons predecease me. Your actions may have condemned  me to suffer, not only in this life, but also in the afterlife. Failing to protect Yoseif (Joseph) from wild beasts is the manner by which  you bereaved his father. Your failure to look after  Yoseif is the reason why he  132 Seof Hor Reason why he  132 Seof Hor Reason Why he  133 Seof Hor Reason Why he  134 Seof Hor Reason Why he  135 Seof Hor Reason Why he  136 Seof Hor Reason Why he  137 Seof Hor Reason Why he  138 Seof Hor Reason Why he  139 Seof Hor Reason Why he  130 Seof Hor Reason Why he  131 Seof Hor Reason Why he  132 Seof Hor Reason Why he  133 Seof Hor Reason Why he  134 Seof Hor Reason Why he  135 Seof Hor Reason Why he  136 Seof Hor Reason Why he  137 Seof Hor Reason Why he  137 Seof Hor Reason Why he  137 Seof Hor Reason Why he  138 Seof Hor Reason Why he  139 Seof Hor Reason Why he  130 Seof Hor Reason Why he  131 Seof Hor Reason Why he  132 Seof Hor Reason Why he  132 Seof Hor Reason Why he  133 Seof Hor Reason Why he  134 Seof Hor Reason Why he  135 Seof Hor Reason Why he  135 Seof Hor Reason Why he  136 Seof Hor Reason Why he  137 Seof Hor Reason Why he  137 Seof Hor Reason	, , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , ,
Rather than being sympathetic toward his sons' plight, Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) judges them harshly for becoming adversaries to the Viceroy of Egypt who accused them of spying, held Shimon hostage and demanded Binyomin testify on their behalf. Based upon the manner in which they comported themselves in Egypt, Yaakov realizes that his sons are capable of deception, robbery and treachery and forms an opinion that his sons may have either killed or sold Shimon into slavery. Father is determined to speak to his sons, and after contemplating what to say  to them.  Yaakov The treacherous and foolhardy manner in which you comported yourselves in Egypt may result in Shimon's death. It has been ordained from on high that God will not fulfill the destiny of His covenant-observant people if any of my sons predecease me. Your actions may have condemned me to suffer, not only in this life, but also in the afterlife. Failing to protect Yoseif (Joseph) from wild beasts is the manner by which  you bereaved his father. Your failure to look after yoseif is the reason why he  is not here with me,  and your foolhardy interaction with the Egyptians is the reason why Shimon  is not here with me. Now you ask for my permission to allow Binyomin to be taken to Egypt to testify on your behalf,  and with two of my sons gone, how dare you ask me to give you leave to take Binyomin to Egypt and put his life in jeopardy?  Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves,  you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily  upon me.* My sons have become the architects of misfortune and  they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get all of them killed."  Genesis 42:37  Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the themerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, th
(Israel)) judges them harshly for becoming adversaries to the Viceroy of Egypt who accused them of spying, held Shimon hostage and demanded Binyomin testify on their behalf. Based upon the manner in which they comported themselves in Egypt, Yaakov realizes that his sons are capable of deception, robbery and treachery and forms an opinion that his sons may have either killed or sold Shimon into slavery. Father is determined to speak to his sons, and after contemplating what to say to them.  Yaakov,  The treacherous and foolhardy manner in which you comported yourselves in Egypt may result in Shimon's death. It has been ordained from on high that God will not fulfill the destiny of His covenant-observant people if any of my sons predecease me. Your actions may have condemned  me to suffer, not only in this life, but also in the afterlife. Failing to protect Yoseif (Joseph) from wild beasts is the manner by which  you bereaved* his father. Your failure to look after  Yoseif is the reason why he  is not here with me.  Now you ask for my permission to allow Binyomin to be taken to Egypt to testify on your behalf,  and with two of my sons gone, how dare you ask me to give you leave to take Binyomin to Egypt and put his life in jeopardy?  Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves,  you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily  upon me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and  they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get  all of them killed.  Genesis 42:37*  Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear b		וּיֹאמר accused them of spying, held Shimon hostage and demanded Binyomin testify on their behalf. Based upon the manner in which they comported themselves in Egypt, Yaakov realizes that his sons are capable of deception, robbery and treachery and forms an opinion that his sons may have either killed or sold Shimon into slavery. Father is determined to speak to his sons, and after contemplating what to say to them.  2078  2		, , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , behalf. Based upon the manner in which they comported themselves in Egypt, Yaakov realizes that his sons are capable of deception, robbery and treachery and forms an opinion that his sons may have either killed or sold Shimon into slavery. Father is determined to speak to his sons, and after contemplating what to say  to them.  Yaakov,  their father says, "The treacherous and foolhardy manner in which you comported yourselves in Egypt may result in Shimon's death. It has been ordained from on high that God will not fulfill the destiny of His covenant-observant people if any of my sons predecease me. Your actions may have condemned  me to suffer, not only in this life, but also in the afterlife. Failing to protect Yoseif (Joseph) from wild beasts is the manner by which  you bereaved his father. Your failure to look after  Yoseif is the reason why he  so not here with me,  and your foolhardy interaction with the Egyptians is the reason why Shimon  your foolhardy interaction with the Egyptians is the reason why Shimon  is not here with me. Now you ask for my permission to allow Binyomin to be taken to  Egypt to testify on your behalf,  and with two of my sons gone, how dare you ask me to give you leave to take Binyomin to Egypt and put his life in jeopardy?  Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves,  you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily  upon me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and  they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get  all of them killed."  Genesis 42:37  Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before	, , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , , realizes that his sons are capable of deception, robbery and treachery and forms an opinion that his sons may have either killed or sold Shimon into slavery. Father is determined to speak to his sons, and after contemplating what to say  to them.  Yaakov,  their father says, "The treacherous and foolhardy manner in which you comported yourselves in Egypt may result in Shimon's death. It has been ordained from on high that God will not fulfill the destiny of His covenant-observant people if any of my sons predecease me. Your actions may have condemned  me to suffer, not only in this life, but also in the afterlife. Failing to protect Yoseif (Joseph) from wild beasts is the manner by which you bereaved his father. Your failure to look after  Yoseif is the reason why he  is not here with me,  and your foolhardy interaction with the Egyptians is the reason why Shimon  is not here with me. Now you ask for my permission to allow Binyomin to be taken to Egypt to testify on your behalf,  and with two of my sons gone, how dare you ask me to give you leave to take Binyomin to Egypt and put his life in jeopardy?  Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves,  you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily  upon me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get  all of them killed."  Genesis 42:37  Yaakov (Jacob) alk/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to all opinion that his sons may have either killed or sold Shimon into slavery. Father is determined to speak to his sons, and after contemplating what to say  to them.  בּבַּיבָּיבָּיבַ their father says, "The treacherous and foolhardy manner in which you comported yourselves in Egypt may result in Shimon's death. It has been ordained from on high that God will not fulfill the destiny of His covenant-observant people if any of my sons predecease me. Your actions may have condemned  me to suffer, not only in this life, but also in the afterlife. Failing to protect Yoseif (Joseph) from wild beasts is the manner by which  you bereaved his father. Your failure to look after  yoseif is the reason why he  is not here with me, and your foolhardy interaction with the Egyptians is the reason why Shimon  si not here with me. Now you ask for my permission to allow Binyomin to be taken to Egypt to testify on your behalf, and with two of my sons gone, how dare you ask me to give you leave to take Binyomin to Egypt and put his life in jeopardy?  Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves, you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily  upon me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get all of them killed."  Genesis 42:37  Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin	, , , determined to speak to his sons, and after contemplating what to say to them.  Paakov,  Tather says, "The treacherous and foolhardy manner in which you comported yourselves in Egypt may result in Shimon's death. It has been ordained from on high that God will not fulfill the destiny of His covenant-observant people if any of my sons predecease me. Your actions may have condemned me to suffer, not only in this life, but also in the afterlife. Failing to protect Yoseif (Joseph) from wild beasts is the manner by which  you bereaved his father. Your failure to look after  Yoseif is the reason why he sont here with me, and your foolhardy interaction with the Egyptians is the reason why Shimon sont here with me. Now you ask for my permission to allow Binyomin to be taken to Egypt to testify on your behalf, and with two of my sons gone, how dare you ask me to give you leave to take Binyomin to Egypt and put his life in jeopardy?  Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves,  you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily  yon me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get  all of them killed."  Genesis 42:37  Genesis to them.  Yaakov, their father says, "The treacherous and foolhardy manner in which you comported yourselves in Egypt may result in Shimon's death. It has been ordained from on high that God will not fulfill the destiny of His covenant-observant people if any of my sons predecease me. Your actions may have condemned  me to suffer, not only in this life, but also in the afterlife. Failing to protect Yoseif (Joseph) from wild beasts is the manner by which you bereaved his father. Your failure to look after  Yoseif is the reason why he  Is not here with me, and your foolhardy interaction with the Egyptians is the reason why Shimon is not here with me. Now you ask for my permission to allow Binyomin to be taken to Egypt to testify on your behalf, and with two of my sons gone, how dare you ask me to give you leave to take Binyomin to Egypt and put his life in jeopardy?  Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves, you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily  upon me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get  all of them killed." Genesis 42:37  Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin	· אמניס, their father says, "The treacherous and foolhardy manner in which you comported yourselves in Egypt may result in Shimon's death. It has been ordained from on high that God will not fulfill the destiny of His covenant-observant people if any of my sons predecease me. Your actions may have condemned  me to suffer, not only in this life, but also in the afterlife. Failing to protect Yoseif (Joseph) from wild beasts is the manner by which you bereaved his father. Your failure to look after Yoseif is the reason why he is not here with me, and your foolhardy interaction with the Egyptians is the reason why Shimon is not here with me. Now you ask for my permission to allow Binyomin to be taken to Egypt to testify on your behalf, and with two of my sons gone, how dare you ask me to give you leave to take Binyomin to Egypt and put his life in jeopardy?  Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves, you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily upon me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get all of them killed." Genesis 42:37 Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin their father says, "The treacherous and foolhardy manner in which you comported yourselves in Egypt may result in Shimon's death. It has been ordained from on high that God will not fulfill the destiny of His covenant-observant people if any of my sons predecease me. Your actions may have condemned me to suffer, not only in this life, but also in the afterlife. Failing to protect Yoseif (Joseph) from wild beasts is the manner by which you bereaved his father. Your failure to look after Yoseif is the reason why he son there with me, and your foolhardy interaction with the Egyptians is the reason why Shimon so not here with me. Now you ask for my permission to allow Binyomin to be taken to Egypt to testify on your behalf, and with two of my sons gone, how dare you ask me to give you leave to take Binyomin to Egypt and put his life in jeopardy?  Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves, you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily upon me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get all of them killed."  Genesis 42:37  Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein sezies upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin yourselves in Egypt may result in Shimon's death. It has been ordained from on high that God will not fulfill the destiny of His covenant-observant people if any of my sons predecease me. Your actions may have condemned me to suffer, not only in this life, but also in the afterlife. Failing to protect Yoseif (Joseph) from wild beasts is the manner by which you bereaved his father. Your failure to look after Yoseif is the reason why he is not here with me, and your foolhardy interaction with the Egyptians is the reason why Shimon is not here with me. Now you ask for my permission to allow Binyomin to be taken to Egypt to testify on your behalf, and with two of my sons gone, how dare you ask me to give you leave to take Binyomin to Egypt and put his life in jeopardy?  Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves, you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily upon me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get  all of them killed."  Genesis 42:37  Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin that God will not fulfill the destiny of His covenant-observant people if any of my sons predecease me. Your actions may have condemned me to suffer, not only in this life, but also in the afterlife. Failing to protect Yoseif (Joseph) from wild beasts is the manner by which you bereaved his father. Your failure to look after Yoseif is the reason why he so not here with me, and your foolhardy interaction with the Egyptians is the reason why Shimon is not here with me. Now you ask for my permission to allow Binyomin to be taken to Egypt to testify on your behalf, and with two of my sons gone, how dare you ask me to give you leave to take Binyomin to Egypt and put his life in jeopardy?  Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves,  you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily  upon me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get all of them killed."  Genesis 42:37  Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin		אֲבִיהֶם predecease me. Your actions may have condemned  me to suffer, not only in this life, but also in the afterlife. Failing to protect Yoseif (Joseph) from wild beasts is the manner by which  you bereaved his father. Your failure to look after  position is not here with me, and your foolhardy interaction with the Egyptians is the reason why Shimon is not here with me. Now you ask for my permission to allow Binyomin to be taken to Egypt to testify on your behalf, and with two of my sons gone, how dare you ask me to give you leave to take Binyomin to Egypt and put his life in jeopardy?  Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves, you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily upon me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get all of them killed."  Genesis 42:37  Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin me to suffer, not only in this life, but also in the afterlife. Failing to protect Yoseif (Joseph) from wild beasts is the manner by which you bereaved his father. Your failure to look after Yoseif is the reason why he is not here with me, and your foolhardy interaction with the Egyptians is the reason why Shimon is not here with me. Now you ask for my permission to allow Binyomin to be taken to Egypt to testify on your behalf, and with two of my sons gone, how dare you ask me to give you leave to take Binyomin to Egypt and put his life in jeopardy?  Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves, you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily upon me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get all of them killed."  Genesis 42:37 Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin (Joseph) from wild beasts is the manner by which  you bereaved his father. Your failure to look after  Yoseif is the reason why he  is not here with me, and your foolhardy interaction with the Egyptians is the reason why Shimon is not here with me. Now you ask for my permission to allow Binyomin to be taken to Egypt to testify on your behalf, and with two of my sons gone, how dare you ask me to give you leave to take Binyomin to Egypt and put his life in jeopardy?  Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves, you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily  upon me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get all of them killed."  Genesis 42:37  Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin	· ·
you bereaved his father. Your failure to look after  Yoseif is the reason why he  is not here with me, and your foolhardy interaction with the Egyptians is the reason why Shimon is not here with me. Now you ask for my permission to allow Binyomin to be taken to Egypt to testify on your behalf, and with two of my sons gone, how dare you ask me to give you leave to take Binyomin to Egypt and put his life in jeopardy?  Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves, you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily  upon me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get all of them killed."  Genesis 42:37  Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin		אתִי
Yoseif is the reason why he יוֹנָהְיִנְינוֹ is not here with me, יוֹנָהְינוֹ is not here with me, יוֹנָהְינוֹ is not here with me, יוֹנָהְינוֹ is not here with me. Now you ask for my permission to allow Binyomin to be taken to Egypt to testify on your behalf, and with two of my sons gone, how dare you ask me to give you leave to take Binyomin to Egypt and put his life in jeopardy?  Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves, you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily upon me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get all of them killed."  Genesis 42:37  Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin		, , . is not here with me, and your foolhardy interaction with the Egyptians is the reason why Shimon is not here with me. Now you ask for my permission to allow Binyomin to be taken to Egypt to testify on your behalf, and with two of my sons gone, how dare you ask me to give you leave to take Binyomin to Egypt and put his life in jeopardy?  Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves, you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily upon me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get all of them killed."  Genesis 42:37 Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin and your foolhardy interaction with the Egyptians is the reason why Shimon וֹשְׁלְעוֹר is not here with me. Now you ask for my permission to allow Binyomin to be taken to Egypt to testify on your behalf, and with two of my sons gone, how dare you ask me to give you leave to take Binyomin to Egypt and put his life in jeopardy?  Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves, you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily upon me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get all of them killed." Genesis 42:37 Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin is not here with me. Now you ask for my permission to allow Binyomin to be taken to Egypt to testify on your behalf,  and with two of my sons gone, how dare you ask me to give you leave to take Binyomin to Egypt and put his life in jeopardy?  Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves,  you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily  upon me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and  they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get  all of them killed."  Genesis 42:37  Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin	, ,	אֵינֶנּוּ
Egypt to testify on your behalf,  and with two of my sons gone, how dare you ask me to give you leave to take Binyomin to Egypt and put his life in jeopardy?  Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves,  you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily  upon me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get  all of them killed."  Genesis 42:37  Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin מות with two of my sons gone, how dare you ask me to give you leave to take Binyomin to Egypt and put his life in jeopardy?  Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves,  you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily  upon me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and  they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get  all of them killed."  Genesis 42:37  Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin		אֵינֶנּוּ
to Egypt and put his life in jeopardy?  Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves,  you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily  upon me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and  they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get  all of them killed."  Genesis 42:37  Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin		ואת
Binyomin is the son whom I have chosen to comfort me in my old age, and in hopes of saving yourselves,  you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily  upon me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and  they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get  all of them killed."  Genesis 42:37  Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin		1,0 saving yourselves,  you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily  upon me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and  they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get  all of them killed."  Genesis 42:37  Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin		בוומו
you would take him away from me and place his life in jeopardy to testify on your behalf? Your misdeeds weigh heavily  upon me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and  they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get  all of them killed."  Genesis 42:37  Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin		ب ب ب ب
שנים שונים אופים אופים אופים אופים אופים אופים אופים שנים אויים שנים אופים או		מכחו
עיביי me. My sons have become the architects of misfortune and they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get all of them killed."  Genesis 42:37  Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin		11.157.1
they are in the midst of building a house of self-destruction. I fear that their foolhardiness may get  all of them killed."  Genesis 42:37  Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin		עָלַי foolhardiness may get  all of them killed."  Genesis 42:37  Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin מון of them killed."  Genesis 42:37  Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin		· ¥
Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin	, ,	 כלנה
Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) goes silent after rebuking his sons for having the temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin	•
temerity to ask his permission to place Binyomin (his beloved son, their youngest brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin		ַ וי <sup>י</sup> אמר brother) in harm's way. During his father's silence, Yaakov's eldest son Reuvein seizes upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin		⊕ - 1 1 upon an opportunity to attempt to convince him to allow Binyomin to appear before the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin the Viceroy of Egypt and testify on their behalf. Reuvein approaches Yaakov, and after contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin contemplating what manner of argument might convince his father to allow Binyomin 1 /
	to accompany them to Egypt, knows what he has to say .

Reuvein has to say	רְאָוּבֵן
to	אָל
his father that which he hopes will convince him to allow Binyomin to accompany them to Egypt. Yaakov and his sons witness Reuvein	אָבִיו saying, "Exact retribution upon two of my four sons if I fail to return with Binyomin.	לֵאמֹר
Have at it	•
with	אָת
two of	ָ שָׁבֵי
my four sons if I fail to return with Binyomin. If, for example, you disinherit two of my	ַ בָנֵי בָנֵי
four sons, in a manner of speaking,	= =
you will have killed them. Do what you will with two of my four sons	תמית
if I do	אם
not return with Binyomin and Shimon. Please allow Binyomin to accompany us back to	ייב לא
Egypt!	117
I will bring him back	אָבִיאֶנּוּ to you after he testifies and convinces the Viceroy of Egypt to restore our freedom If you	אַלֶּיךָּ
give me leave to become Binyomin's temporary quardian, I will protect him with my life. While Binyomin is in my care, I will ensure his safe return to Canaan	ַתְּנָה מיתו אֹתוֹ
after he appears before the Viceroy of Egypt and provides testimony leading to our exoneration. Consent to deliver Binyomin into	עַל
my hand	יָדִי יָדִי
and I swear that after he testifies and wins our freedom,	ַוַאֲנִי .
I will return him and Shimon	אֲשִׁיבֶנּוּ
to you."	אַלֶּיךָּ
Genesis 42:38
Yaakov (Jacob) a/k/a Yisrael (Israel)) reacts to Reuvein imploring him to take Binyomin	וַיֹּאמֶר to Egypt and says to all his sons, "Binyomin will not be accompanying you to Egypt. I	לא
will not allow Binyomin go down to Egypt with you. I forbid	יֵרַד
my son , who is to comfort me in my old age, to go	בְּנִי with you to Egypt. My sons have brothers, but Binyomin, my only surviving seed to	עָמֶּכֶם have issued forth from Rochel's womb, has none. Binyomin is the only filial survivor to have issued forth from Rochel's womb because	בּֿי
his brother Yoseif (Joseph) met with an untimely end. Yoseif, the older/other brother to	אָחִיו have issued forth from Rochel's womb is dead because of you. Long ago, I entrusted Yoseif to care for me in my old age,	מֶת and since he is gone, he (Binyomin),	וְהוּא by himself, will tend to his father's needs. It would be better if Binyomin, in lieu of	לְבַדּוֹ traveling to Egypt with his brothers, stayed behind to tend to his father's needs. If Binyomin goes to Egypt,	נִשְאָר and disaster should call upon and cause him	ַּוֹקְרָאָהוּ וֹקְרָאָהוּ
harm or death while journeying	אַסוֹן
on the way to and from Egypt, then any retribution exacted against your sons will serve	= څورل no purpose to compensate for his loss. If I allow Binyomin to accompany you on	1 ÷ ÷= that path dictated by the Viceroy of Egypt, it is likely that	אַשֶּׁר and pain diedied by the free of or Egypticis interprint

you, while walking	תַּלְכוּ
on it, will encounter disaster. If your interaction with the Egyptians ends in violence	בָה and Binyomin dies, you will bring down a torrent of grief that will wash the color from	וְהוֹרַדְתֶּם my hair. I shall,
with	אָת
with my white hairs framing my sorrowful countenance, remain	שֵׁיבָתִי
in a perpetual state of sorrow and pray for a hastening	בְּיָגוֹן
to the grave."	שְׁאוֹלָה